Grammar

- 7 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Present simple and present continuous

Use the 1 present simple/present continuous:

- to talk about habits and routines or repeated actions, often with adverbs of frequency like usually, often and sometimes:

I usually listen to music.

- for permanent situations.

I come from (Bilbao).

I run my own company.

Use the 2 present simple/present continuous to talk about actions at the present moment, happening around now and temporary situations, often with at the moment and right now.

I'm studying for a degree.

My wife is doing a degree at the moment.

Some verbs almost always use 3 simple/continuous forms, for example, have/have got, like, love, hate, prefer, hear, see, know, want.

He's got/has a degree in civil engineering.

She wants to get a job abroad.

- 8 a 1.2 Listen and notice the pronunciation of do you.

- 3 I'm going to ask my boss if I can apply for a new role in the company.'
- 4 I really want to have a job where I can have more fun and get to know the people I work with.'

Grammar

- 5 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

be going to* and present continuous

Use be going to and the present continuous to talk about plans, intentions and arrangements for the ¹present/future.

Use the present continuous for future arrangements, often with other people and giving a time/place.

I'm meeting an old friend next month

Use be going to to talk about your intentions. In this situation, you might not know all the details of your plan.

What are you going to do? I'm going to ask for advice.

- 6 a 1.3 Listen and notice the pronunciation of -ing.

- 1 When are you going to take that holiday?
- 2 I'm seeing my boss tomorrow.
- 3 I'm going to ask for advice.

- b Listen again and repeat.

Where is your life going?

When you make a life map, you write down important details about your journey through life. By answering questions like the ones below, a life map can help you to decide what you'd like to do in the future.

A What's your life like at the moment?

What do you like about it? What don't you like? What things do you enjoy? What would you like to change? Think about your job, friends and family, studies, money, the way you live, etc.

B What are your goals?

Set yourself some goals. How ambitious are you? Do you want a better job and more money or do you want to spend more time with friends and family? How creative are you? Do you want to learn a new skill or try a new sport or hobby? Decide what you really want and make a list of goals for each area of your life.

C How are you going to achieve them?

Now you need to decide what actions you can take to achieve your goals. What can you do now and what are you going to do in the future? Make a list of all the things – big or small – that you can do to achieve your goals. Here are some examples:

I'm going to ask my boss if I can work part time.

I'm going to stop staying late at the office.

D When are you going to achieve them?

When are you going to look for a new job or join the gym? When are you going to ask your boss for more money? When are you going to take that holiday? Decide on a date for each action. And finally, be patient ... you can't do everything at once, but remember your goals, start working to achieve them and you really will change your life!

- 7 Complete the sentences with the verbs in the box. Use be going to or the present continuous. Sometimes both forms are possible.

be do find go play relax talk

- 1 I _____ to Matthew this afternoon at 3 p.m. about the new role.
- 2 She _____ a job when she finishes her degree.
- 3 What _____ you _____ when the course finishes?
- 4 I _____ to an interview tomorrow for a job in sales.
- 5 I think we _____ busier when the new baby arrives.
- 6 She _____ tennis this evening at 7 p.m.
- 7 When I'm older, I _____ more and work less!

- 8 a Complete the sentences with your own ideas. Use be going to or the present continuous.

- | | |
|---------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 Tomorrow, I'm ... | 4 At the weekend, ... |
| 2 Later this evening, ... | 5 Next week, ... |
| 3 After this lesson, ... | 6 Next year, ... |

b Work in pairs and compare your ideas.

Vocabulary and reading

1 Look at the photos. What can you see?

2 a Match sentences 1–6 with photos A–F.

- 1 The number of online dating sites is increasing. Finding a date is becoming easier.
- 2 The number of young people buying houses has decreased this year. The number of new home owners went down last year, too.
- 3 Driverless cars could reduce the number of accidents. Driving in big cities should improve.
- 4 The population of cities is rising as more young people move to big cities. The population of London went up again this year.
- 5 In some countries, power from wind farms and the sun is replacing energy from oil. Air pollution in towns is falling as a result.
- 6 The weather is not likely to improve. In fact, it is getting worse, not getting better. Experts say it is becoming harder to fight events like forest fires.

b Match the words and phrases in box A with their opposites in box B. Use Exercise 2a to help you.

A

decreasing/falling/going down getting harder getting worse

getting easier improving/getting better increasing/rising/going up

3 Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 It is fantastic that it's becoming easier/harder to get electricity from the sun and the wind.
- 2 People can't buy a house because the prices are going up/down all the time.
- 3 The number of driverless cars needs to get better/go up to make the roads in big cities safer.
- 4 The number of people experiencing bad weather is increasing/decreasing and scientists are very worried that this situation will continue.
- 5 Everyone is happy when things get better/decrease and worried when they improve/get worse.
- 6 In some countries, the population is rising/falling so there aren't enough young people.

Go to your app for more practice.

4 Read the comments about changes in the future. How many people talk about changes at work?

- 1 A lot of people already use dating sites, but I think in the future the number of people who use them will rise even more. Dating sites will improve, so they will get better at finding you the perfect person. In the future, they will be the only way that couples meet.
 - 2 These days, some people work at home one or two days a week instead of going to an office every day. I think in the future lots more people will work from home all the time, and the number of offices will decrease. It's sad, because people won't be as sociable.
 - 3 I think the number of people on the planet will continue to increase. There'll be less space, so we'll need to change the way we live. Maybe we'll live underground, or maybe lots of people will live together in a single house. Life will definitely get worse!
 - 4 Driverless cars are a new thing at the moment, but I think in the future it will be normal to have one. I think it'll be a good thing, because we won't have so many accidents. Maybe we'll stop using petrol, too. That would be good!
 - 5 The weather will change a lot in the future. It will become more extreme. There'll be big changes in temperature, too. It won't be good!
- 5 Match comments 1–5 in Exercise 4 with replies a–e.
- a 'I agree. There won't be enough houses for everyone because the population will rise.'
 - b 'That won't happen. I think we will be able to control the weather and everything will get better.'
 - c 'I think meeting partners online is a terrible idea! Will it become easier to meet people? I don't think so!'
 - d 'You're right. In the future, it's possible that everyone will work from their homes.'
 - e 'At last things will improve! Goodbye to dirty air in our cities. I can't wait!'

Grammar

6 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternative.

will for prediction

Use will or won't to talk about future/past actions.

A big change will be how people meet each other.

They won't meet through work or family any more.

Use phrases like next year, in the future or in a (few/ten/twenty, etc.) year's time when we predict the future.

In the future, everyone will meet their partners on online dating sites.

Use verbs like think, believe, expect and hope, to introduce predictions.

I think we will live in a different way.

When you feel very confident about a prediction, use phrases like I'm sure or I'm certain.

I'm sure there will be temperature changes.

7 a 1.5 Listen and notice the pronunciation of will and won't.

- 1 Will there be a change?
- 2 We don't know what will happen.
- 3 He won't come to the party.

b Listen again and repeat.

8 Make sentences with will using the prompts.

- 1 I / sure / Harry / get / a new job / next year.
I'm sure Harry will get a new job next year.
- 2 I / not / think / the weather / get / worse here.
- 3 We / not / have / driverless cars / for a long time.
- 4 There / be / more work / for everyone in future.
- 5 The population / in our country / rise.
- 6 We / not / have / enough new houses / for everyone.
- 7 People / have to / live together.
- 8 I / think / people / still / want / to get married.
- 9 I / not / think / everyone / meet / online.

9 What will change in your life in the next five years?

Write six predictions about your life. Think about these topics:

- home
- work
- hobbies

I will move to a new house next year.

D Go to page 116 or your app for more information and practice.

Speaking

PREPARE

10 a 1.6 You're going to make predictions about your country. First, listen to Daniel and Sofia talking about the future and choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 Daniel predicts that there won't be any doctors/robots in the future.
- 2 He thinks people will/won't get sick in the future.
- 3 Daniel says there will be no/more offices in the future.
- 4 He says people will work from big offices/cafés.
- 5 Sofia and Daniel think people will meet each other at home/online.

b Which of the predictions do you agree with?

English in action

Goal: make and respond to suggestions

1 Look at the photo and discuss the questions.

- 1 How is the man feeling?
- 2 What activities do you think would make him feel better?

2 a 1.9 Listen to two friends, Katy and Pete, talking on the phone and answer the questions.

- 1 What is Pete's problem?
- 2 What does Katy recommend?
- 3 What three suggestions does she make?
- 4 What does Pete decide to do?
- 5 Why doesn't he like the other suggestions?

b Listen again and match suggestions 1–4 with reasons a–g. Some suggestions match with more than one reason.

- 1 I really recommend doing regular exercise.
 - 2 What about running?

- 5 Speaker 3 was leaving the office when she heard a noise.
- 6 While she was waiting for the security guard, she saw a cat.

Grammar

- 6 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Past simple and past continuous

Use the ¹*past simple/past continuous* to talk about completed actions and events in the past.

Last year I had an interview for a new job.

Use the ²*past simple/past continuous*

- to talk about an action or situation in progress around a time in the past.

One afternoon, I was walking along the street...

- to describe the background to a story.

I was working late at the office one night...

Use the past continuous and past simple with when and while to talk about interrupted actions. Use while or while/when + past continuous and when + past simple.

While I was walking through the old town, I suddenly realised I was late.

She was just leaving when she heard a noise.

- 7 a 2.2 Listen and notice the pronunciation of was. Is it strong or weak?

Reading

- 4 a Read the post and comments below it. Which of the senses do the comments mention?

Sight, sound, taste, smell, feel – our senses often remind us of important events from our childhood and family life. What are your happiest memories? What helps you remember them?

Comments

The smell of chips always reminds me of swimming lessons when I was at school. We used to pass a chip shop when we were walking to the pool every Friday and if we had money, we'd get some. Whenever I eat chips, I remember those Friday swimming lessons. Ed

The sound of rain on the windows always makes me think of my childhood. I grew up in Malaysia and it rained a lot from October to March. My sister and I used to love going out and running around in the rain. My mother didn't use to mind! Tony

When I hear the old song Bohemian Rhapsody, I have happy memories of long car journeys on our holidays. Every summer my father used to drive us to the seaside. During the journey we used to play all kinds of music, but this song was our favourite. It always reminds me of that time. Tess

The smell and taste of roast chicken always makes me think of my grandmother. We used to go to her house every Sunday. She used to cook lunch for the whole family. I'll never forget her roast chicken. It tasted so good. Sara

- b Read the post and comments again and answer the questions.

- Why does the taste of chips remind Ed of school swimming lessons?
- Why does Tony remember his childhood when he hears the sound of rain?
- Why does Tess love that old song?
- Why does roast chicken make Sara think of her grandmother?

Grammar

- 5 Read the grammar box. Find more examples of used to in the comments in Exercise 4.

used to

Use used to to talk about actions that happened regularly in the past, but don't happen now.

Every summer we used to go to the seaside.

My mother didn't use to mind!

What did she and her sister use to do?

Don't use used to for actions or events that only happened once in the past. Use the past simple.

My mum made a cake last week.

NOT: My mum used to make a cake last week.

- 6 a 2.3 Listen and notice the pronunciation of used to. Which is pronounced more strongly, used or to?

- We used to go every Friday.
- My mother didn't use to mind!
- What did they use to do?

- b Listen again and repeat.

- 7 a Complete the sentences with used to or didn't use to.

When I was a child, ...

1 I _____ ride my bike to school.

2 I _____ fight with my brother a lot.

3 I _____ play volleyball with my friends after school.

When I was a teenager, ...

4 I _____ go on holiday with my friends.

5 I _____ study hard.

6 I _____ play in the school orchestra.

- b Work in pairs and ask your partner the questions.

Did you use to ride your bike to school?

No, I didn't. I used to take the bus.

- c Ask and answer more questions about your childhood.

Use the prompts and your own ideas.

- play video games

Culture shock

- ▶ Goal: describe a new experience
- ▶ Grammar: so/such... that; too ... to; not ... enough to
- ▶ Vocabulary: feelings and reactions

Reading and vocabulary

1 Look at the photos and discuss the questions.

- 1 Where do you think the photos were taken?
- 2 Would you like to live in these places? Why/Why not?

2 Read the article. Where did Sue and Mike live?

Going to live somewhere new is exciting. You won't be bored because whatever happens it won't be dull. However, will it be too strange for you to enjoy it? It's normal to feel a bit nervous and you may even experience a bit of culture shock, but there's no reason to feel anxious. Here are some tips from two people who have lived abroad.

Remember it will be stressful in the beginning. When I moved to Mexico there were so many new things that I didn't know where to start. Understanding how to pay bills was such a problem that I gave up! I was lucky because friends helped me. Then suddenly everything becomes fun and enjoyable. The towns and cities in Mexico are so lively that you never feel bored. And the historical sites are extraordinary. My best tip is ... learn the language. At first, I didn't feel confident enough to speak. That's the best way to understand the local culture and make friends. – Sue

At first, you feel optimistic – you think everything is going to be wonderful, but remember, you will feel homesick. There will be days when you are having such an unpleasant time that you just want to go home! I came to Vietnam. In the beginning, everything was strange. The streets were full of people, cars and bicycles. It was so dangerous, you couldn't cross the road! However, then I started to enjoy life here. The people are so cheerful and friendly that I felt at home very quickly. It's such a beautiful country. The countryside is so peaceful and quiet. In fact, I'm so happy here now that I don't want to go home. So, remember, stay positive! Everything really will be wonderful in the end. – Mike anxious cheerful dull enjoyable extraordinary homesick lively nervous optimistic peaceful positive strange stressful unpleasant

- 1 Are the adjectives negative or positive?
- 2 Which describe how people feel?
- 3 Which describe what an experience was like?

4 Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 It was an enjoyable/unpleasant trip. I loved it.
- 2 I'm really glad I went there. It was a positive/stressful experience and I learned a lot.
- 3 I felt tired and cheerful/anxious by the time we arrived.
- 4 We were lucky to see some extraordinary/dull places.
- 5 I thought it was a peaceful/lively place. There were a lot of different things happening all the time.
- 6 I like going to new places and I never feel nervous/optimistic about going somewhere new.
- 7 I was travelling alone. I went home in the end because I was sad and cheerful/homesick all the time.

5 a Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- 1 Going to the dentist is always really stressful.
- 2 Some people think that _____ is really enjoyable, but I find it really dull.
- 3 _____ is a really pleasant and peaceful place.
- 4 The first time I tried _____, I thought it was a bit strange.

Grammar

- 6 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

so/such ... (that)

Use so... that and such... that to link a cause to a result.

I'm so happy that I don't want to go home.

Understanding how to pay bills was such a problem that I gave up!

Use so before a(n) ¹*noun/adjective*.

And the people are so friendly and cheerful...

Use ²*so/such* with an adjective and a noun together.

It's such a beautiful country!

Use ³*so/such* before many and much.

...there were so many new things that I didn't know where to start.

too ... to and (not) enough ... to Use too ... to to say something is more than you want. Use (not) enough ... to to say you have or don't have as much as you want.

Use ⁴*too/enough* before an adjective and ⁵*too/enough* after an adjective.

Will it be too strange for you to enjoy it?

I didn't feel confident enough to cross the road.

To say you have what you need, use enough before a noun.

There's enough time to become perfect.

- 7 a 2.5 Listen and notice the pronunciation of so and such. In which sentences are they more strongly pronounced? Why?

- 1 It's such a nice day.
- 2 He's so quiet today.
- 3 I was so busy yesterday afternoon.
- 4 She's such a bad liar.

- b Listen again and repeat.

B Choose the correct alternatives.

My dad had ¹*so/such* a wonderful time living abroad ²*that/* than he didn't want to go home. However, my mum thought this kind of life was ³*too/so* hard to do forever. There wasn't ⁴*enough/too* time to feel at home in one place. It was ⁵*too/* enough stressful for her ⁶*to/that* keep moving all the time, but staying in one place wasn't exciting ⁷*so/* enough for us kids. Mum complained that we went to ⁸*so/* such many different schools ⁹*that/to* we couldn't get a good education. I think we were fine, though!

9 a Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

3A Bucket lists

- ▶ Goal: talk about experiences
- ▶ Grammar: present perfect and past simple
- ▶ Vocabulary: experiences

Reading and vocabulary

1 a Read the definition of a bucket list and discuss the questions.

A bucket list is a list of all the experiences you want to have during your life.

- 1 Do you have a bucket list? Why/Why not?
- 2 What kind of things do you think people put on them?

b Read the bucket list ideas. Which can you see in the photos?

- take part in a marathon
- perform in a play
- raise money for charity
- take up a new sport
- go backpacking
- explore the ancient ruins of Egypt
- experience a new culture
- apply to be a film extra
- try hot-air ballooning

2 a Match the verbs in bold in Exercise 1b with phrases a–i.

- a _____ in a band/in a show/on stage
- b _____ travelling/hiking/ice skating
- c _____ a new cuisine/scuba diving/learning a new language
- d _____ a new cuisine/something new/living abroad
- e _____ to appear on a TV programme
- f _____ a hobby/golf
- g _____ to help animals/for your local school
- h _____ the jungle/the coast of Canada
- i _____ a singing competition/a race

b Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which activities have you done?
- 2 Which would you like to do?

Have you ever felt that time is passing and you haven't achieved very much? I used to feel like that all the time, until I created my bucket list. Here are some ideas of things you could try!

• Take up a new sport

Sports are a great way to keep fit and they can be exciting, too. For example, have you tried water sports? I've been diving several times and it's an amazing experience. I'm going to take up skiing too when I find the time!

• Experience new cultures

Travelling helps us experience new cultures. This year I've already been to three different continents and I've learned a lot from each place I've been to. My favourite place was Canada. I went to Toronto for two weeks in January. There are some places I haven't been to yet, like South Africa, but it's on my bucket list.

• Raise money for charity

Raising money for charity is a great way to help people and it can be fun, too. A friend of mine is going to climb Kilimanjaro for a children's charity next year and she's already raised £1,000 since she started training.

• Take up a hobby or interest

I've always enjoyed games of skill like chess. They make you think really hard and help to improve your memory. Doing something creative is fun, too. A friend of mine has just joined a band. He loves performing and he's having a great time.

3 Read the blog and answer the questions.

- 1 What activities and experiences does the writer recommend? Why?
- 2 Which activities has the writer already done? Does he say exactly when?
- 3 Which hasn't he done yet?

Grammar

- 4 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Present perfect and past simple

Use the 1 present perfect/past simple for:

- experiences in our lives up to now; often with ever and never.
- events that happened in the past when the exact time is not important.
I've been diving
- recently completed actions.
A friend of mine has joined a band recently.

Use the 2 present perfect/past simple for:

- completed actions/events in the past at a particular time.
- an action/a situation covering a period of time that started and finished in the past.
I went to Toronto for two weeks in January.

Other time expressions you can use with the present perfect include:

- already*, which means 'before now'
I've already tried scuba diving.
- yet* with negative verbs and questions, which means 'up to now'.
I haven't tried sushi yet.

- 5 a 3.1 Listen and notice the pronunciation of you've, I've and she's.

- e I went to New York for work last month.
- f My boss has been trying to persuade me to move to the Mexican office for ages. I've just accepted the job.

Grammar

- 6 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Present perfect continuous and present perfect simple

Form the present perfect continuous with the ¹*present simple/present perfect simple of be + verb + -ing*.

What have you been doing since I last saw you?

I've been travelling quite a lot for work

Have you been doing anything interesting?

Use the ²*present perfect continuous/present perfect simple*:

- to emphasise that an action or situation that started in the past is still in progress.

I've been taking Spanish lessons.

- to emphasise the length of time of an action.

He's been studying hard for months.

- for repeated recent actions.

He's been trying to persuade me to move.

Use the ³*present perfect continuous/present perfect simple* to focus on the finished result of an action.

I've just accepted the job.

Use the present perfect simple with verbs that don't usually take the continuous form e.g. have, want, know etc.

I've known him for three months.

I've had a car for a few years now.

- 7 a 3.4 Listen and notice the pronunciation of been.

My kind of town

- ▶ Goal: talk about a favourite town, city or neighbourhood
- ▶ Grammar: articles
- ▶ Vocabulary: features of a town

Vocabulary

1 Read the comments. Which is closest to what you think about cities? Why?

- 1 Cities are noisy, crowded and dirty, but I feel at home there!
- 2 Everything you need is in a city - culture, shopping, restaurants and fun!
- 3 I only go to the city when I need to. They are very stressful places.
- 4 I like visiting big cities, but I'm happy I don't live in one!

2 Find the words and phrases in the box in photos A–I.

art gallery cycle lane landmark neighbourhood outdoor café pedestrian street skyline square suburb traffic jam

3 a Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 I think we need more cycle lanes/traffic jams. People are nervous about using their bikes in the city centre because they feel it's dangerous.
- 2 I hate sitting in traffic jams/art galleries for hours when I'm trying to get to work in the morning.
- 3 I'd like to move from the pedestrian street/suburbs to the city centre. My square/neighbourhood is really boring!
- 4 When it's sunny, it's nice to sit in an outdoor café/landmark in one of the local art galleries/squares.
- 5 It's a small town, so there aren't many famous landmarks/suburbs.
- 6 The city doesn't have too many tall buildings, so the skyline/cycle path isn't that amazing.
- 7 We need more interesting places to visit in town, like museums and pedestrian streets/art galleries.
- 8 If we had more pedestrian streets/suburbs, it would be easier to walk around the city centre.

b Which of the sentences are true for you and your home town?

Number 1 is definitely true, we really need more cycle lanes in my town!

Reading

- 3 a Read the title and introduction of the article. How old are millennials?

WHO ARE THE MILLENNIALS?

The term millennials describes people born between the 1980s and the mid-2000s. They're also known as the internet generation. What's special about them?

HEALTH AND WELLBEING

Millennials are more interested in health and fitness than previous generations. They exercise more regularly than any other generation. They eat better than older generations, too. Instead of buying fast food, they cook their own food – it's healthier and less fattening.

THE ENVIRONMENT

Millennials are more worried about the environment than older age groups. More millennials are happy to pay a higher price for products that are good for the environment.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Millennials are the first generation born after the internet revolution. They're more connected than any generation before them and they start to use new digital and mobile tools faster. They're also more likely to use social media.

LESS IS MORE

Millennials aren't buying as much as older generations. They're not as interested in owning things as their parents. They care about interesting experiences more than cars, phones and expensive clothes.

HOUSE AND HOME

Fewer adults in this age group own their own home. Many still live with their parents or share a rented flat. Millennials are just as hard-working as their parents, but they earn less money.

Popular brands

- ▶ Goal: express preferences about brands
- ▶ Grammar: superlatives
- ▶ Vocabulary: products and services

Reading and vocabulary

1 a Read the definition and discuss the questions.

A brand is a type of product made by a particular company that has a particular name or design.

- 1 Are brands important to you? Why/Why not?
- 2 What are your favourite brands? Why do you like them?

2 a Read the article. What makes a strong brand?

What is brand loyalty?

Many of us have brand loyalty to certain products and services. Two pairs of sports shoes might be made of exactly the same material and be made in similar factories by people with similar skills, but because we like the brand we will always choose pair A over pair B. That's why it's so important to have a good brand and that's why companies spend millions of pounds on it.

Today, people have more choice than ever before. That's why it's important for companies to have a clear and easy-to-recognise brand to attract the most customers. So, what makes a strong brand? Here are some of the most important things that companies need to think about.

- 1 Brand identity – a logo or a phrase that everyone knows
- 2 Brand personality – what people think the product is like, e.g. fun, cool, healthy
- 3 Brand values – what the people making the product believe in, e.g. they take care of the environment, they give money to charity, etc.

b Do comments 1–3 refer to brand identity, personality or values?

- 1 'We want our toys to help children learn and to do the best they can.'
- 2 'We're the country's friendliest restaurant with the greatest customer service. Think of us and you think of fun and good times.'
- 3 'We make the strongest, loudest bikes for the strongest, loudest guys.'

3 Read the sentences. Are the words in bold positive or negative when used to describe brands?

- 1 Electric cars are more environmentally friendly than cars that use petrol.
- 2 This digital camera takes high quality photos and it's very easy to use. It's also good value at under £200.
- 3 The company's new family car model is poorly designed and poor value for money. It uses a lot of petrol and is not environmentally friendly.
- 4 This company offers excellent service to all its customers. That's why it's so popular.
- 5 Their products look beautiful, are well designed and very reliable. You can be sure they will last for years.
- 6 It's not a good idea to buy second-hand electrical goods like washing machines because they are unreliable and break down more often.

4 Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 They are so reliable/easy to use, they never break down.
- 2 They're very good value/high quality for money; similar brands are twice the price.
- 3 They have excellent quality/customer service - they're really helpful when you have a problem.
- 4 The website is easy to use/environmentally friendly - you can find everything you need really quickly.
- 5 These products are good value/unpopular because they are so hard to use/easy to use.
- 6 The company has excellent brand values. Their products are environmentally friendly/not environmentally friendly and poor/high quality.

5 a 4.6 Listen and underline the stressed syllables.

Superlatives

Use the + adjective +¹er or -ier/-est or -iest to form the superlative of most short adjectives and adverbs.

They're the strongest, loudest bikes...

We're the country's friendliest restaurant.

Use the +²most/more + adjective to form the superlative of longer adjectives and adverbs ending in -ly.

Here are some of the most important things.

Use the least to form the superlative of adjectives and adverbs. It is the opposite of the most.

What are the least popular brands?

Some adjectives and adverbs have irregular superlatives.

- good/well → ³the best/the better
- bad/badly → ⁴the worse/the worst

We want our children to do the best they can.

Use a superlative adjective with the present perfect tense.
It was the worst customer service we've ever had.

- 7 a 4.7 Listen and notice the pronunciation of most. How is the pronunciation of most different in sentences 1 and 2?

- 1 Here are some of the most important things to think about.
- 2 It's one of the world's most popular brands.

- b Listen again and repeat.

- 8 a Complete the sentences with the superlative form of the words in brackets.

How does it look?

- ▶ Goal: make guesses about people
- ▶ Grammar: modal verbs: possibility and deduction
- ▶ Vocabulary: describing clothes and appearance

Vocabulary

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you prefer smart or casual clothes?
- 2 What clothes do you wear at different times, for example, at work or at home?
- 3 Can you tell what people are like from their clothes?

2 a Read the comments. Which of the descriptions is closest to your own style?

- 1 I want to look good so I like fashionable clothes. I always want to look modern and stylish. It's important for me to have a matching bag and shoes, too, so these have to be the same colour as the other clothes I'm wearing.
- 2 I don't like to dress up in smart clothes, like a suit and tie. I prefer relaxing in some casual old jeans.
- 3 I like to wear vintage clothes ... you know, the kind of clothes people wore forty years ago. I don't think they're old-fashioned and I like to look a bit different.
- 4 I don't really care what I've got on, just as long as I'm comfortable. That's why I never wear tight clothes – they stop me moving easily. I prefer to wear big, loose, comfortable clothes.

b Work in pairs. Do you know anyone who matches descriptions 1–4 in Exercise 2a?

3 Choose the correct alternatives.

My mum thinks I need to ¹dress up/wear and look more ²stylish/old-fashioned for my new job. She thinks my clothes aren't modern enough, so she took me shopping yesterday to buy some ³smart/casual clothes for the office. She says I can't just wear old jeans to work! And she says I have to have ⁴tight/matching shoes and bags, too. You know – everything in the same colour. That's not really my style at all! Anyway, we went to about ten different shops. I didn't like anything and, in the end, we only bought one jacket. I really like it! It's orange. It's ⁵loose/tight, so I can wear a thick sweater under it when it's cold. It doesn't match anything though!

Reading and listening

5 Read the first paragraph of the story. Who do you think the girl is? What do you think is wrong?

One cold day in the city, passers-by notice a young girl standing on the main street, outside one of the biggest buildings. She's wearing casual clothes. She's got an old denim jacket on and a grey sweater, tight jeans and flat black shoes. She is thin, with long blonde hair. She is pale and looks cold. She looks lost and confused.

She looks as if she is about 14 or 15 years old. The people who see her think she must be in trouble, or they think she may be ill or lost. They are worried about her. Someone calls the police. The police take her to hospital. She only starts to speak a few days later, but it is clear that she doesn't speak English, so she can't give the police any information about herself. She communicates through drawings. From the drawings, the police guess that she must be running away. The police think she must be from another country. She definitely can't be English-speaking because she doesn't understand them. However, she could be from somewhere else in Europe.

They start a search to find out who she is so they can return her to her family. Three weeks later they still don't know who she is, so they take an unusual step. They put her photo in the newspapers and on TV.

6 Read the next part of the story and answer the questions.

- 1 Where is the girl?
- 2 How does she look?
- 3 Do people think something is wrong? Are they sure about this?
- 4 How does she communicate with the police?
- 5 What guesses do the police make about her? Why?
- 6 What unusual step do the police take?

7 a 5.1 Listen to the end of the story and choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 The woman called/didn't call the police.
- 2 The girl was/wasn't older than she looked.
- 3 She was/wasn't doing a test of how people behave to strangers.
- 4 This wasn't/was part of her university course.
- 5 Her family knew/didn't know.

b What do you think about the girl's experiment? Was it a good idea?

B

What does 'eating well' mean for you?

These days there's lots of advice about how to eat well. Every day it seems there's a new piece of advice. Eat a varied diet with plenty of fruit and vegetables. Eat regular meals, don't eat too much or too little per meal. Don't eat any snacks between meals. Don't eat too much sugar and dairy ...

However, is there such a thing as the perfect diet? I believe there are many different ways to eat well – the right diet is the one that works best for you and your lifestyle. What makes you feel good?

I agree a balanced diet is good. I know eating a lot of sweets and chocolate is bad for you, but you have to enjoy life as well, don't you? I often have a chocolate bar in the afternoon, but I go to the gym regularly so I don't worry about it! – Anna

My lifestyle is really busy, so I have very little time to shop or cook. I know I eat too many takeaways! However, I always eat Sunday lunch with my family. It's usually roast chicken with several different vegetables. That keeps me healthy and happy! – Jan

I'm a vegetarian most of the time, so I don't eat any meat, eggs or dairy products. I eat a lot of vegetables and I love making interesting meals with them – my spicy curry with peppers, onions and carrots is famous in my family! I eat some fish now and then – grilled, not fried! I think I eat really well. My diet works for me. – Sam

I work from home and I eat several small meals a day. It helps me to concentrate on my work. Eating a big meal makes me feel sleepy. There are a few foods that I avoid, like cheese. I like it, but I can only eat a little. – Peter

Reading

- 5 Read Melanie's post below and her friends' responses. What issues are they discussing?

ABOUT	DISCUSSION	EVENTS
Melanie
Hi, guys! I've had a terrible week - I lost my phone! I couldn't contact anyone. Modern life's so difficult when things go wrong!
Comments
1 Rachel
I agree, losing your phone is pretty bad, but power cuts are worse. We had one last week and I have so many electrical appliances in my flat - it was a nightmare! We couldn't cook. The washing machine stopped working and I had to unload all the wet clothes. I couldn't charge my tablet. We couldn't even use the kettle to make a cup of coffee. It's the worst thing that can happen.
2 Samir
Well, OK, that's bad, but what would you do if you couldn't drive anywhere? My car broke down last month and I didn't get it back for two weeks. It took me hours to get to work. If I lived near the station, I would be able to go to work by train. However, I live outside the city and the public transport isn't very good. If I got up very early, I could get a bus, but it's so slow I'd spend three hours travelling to work! If I didn't have a car, I would have to move.
3 Harry
Has anyone thought that if we didn't have cars, we wouldn't have so much pollution? And if we didn't use our mobile phones all the time, we might meet our friends instead? Maybe I'm just old-fashioned, but I think we have too many things in our lives. What if we tried living without mobile phones, the internet and all our appliances for a week? Wouldn't life be better if we did that?

Second conditional

Use if +¹past/present + would to talk about ²real/imaginary situations in the ³present/past.

If we didn't have cars, we wouldn't have so much pollution.

What would we do if we had no electricity?

Use if +⁴past/present + would to talk about ⁵real/unlikely situations in the ⁶past/future.

I'd meet you tonight if I had my car.

When we want the situation to seem less possible, we can use could/might instead of would.

If I got up very early, I could get a bus, but...

If we didn't use our mobile phones all the time, we might meet our friends instead.

When we are talking about imaginary ability, we use could.

If I had a car, I could get around more easily.

When using the second conditional, say 'If I were', rather than 'If I was'.

- 9 a 6.1 Listen and notice the pronunciation of 'd'.

- 1 You'd feel better if you didn't have so many things.
- 2 If I had my mobile phone with me, I'd call them now.
- 3 If you went by car, you'd get there faster.

- b Listen again and repeat.

- 10 Complete the sentences with the words in brackets. Use the second conditional.

- 1 If you _____ (have) a dishwasher, you _____ (do) the washing-up faster.
- 2 If there _____ (not be) so many cars, there _____ (be) less pollution.
- 3 If we _____ (not have) the internet, we _____ (not be able to) get so much information.
- 4 If there _____ (be) no electricity, _____ our lives _____ (change) completely?
- 5 If you _____ (buy) a tablet, you _____ (be able to) go online whenever you wanted.

- 11 Work in pairs and discuss the question. What would life be like if we had no electricity, running water or petrol?

If we didn't have running water, we would need to carry it from rivers.

b Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 Riding a bike helps to reduce/destroy pollution.
- 2 Do some research before you travel and you will waste/save time and money.
- 3 It's better for the environment to throw away/recycle paper, plastic and glass.
- 4 Reuse/Damage bottles, plastic containers and plastic bags and waste/protect the environment.
- 5 Be carefull! Don't fall over and support/injure yourself.
- 6 Raising money is a good way to support/destroy organisations that attack/protect wildlife.
- 7 Strong winds and waves killed/destroyed the buildings.
- 8 Smoking can save/damage your health.

Go to page 141 or your app for more vocabulary and practice.

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

1 Every year we waste huge amounts of food. We throw away millions of plastic bottles and plastic pollution kills thousands of fish, sea animals and birds. We need to reduce waste to protect the environment.

- Don't throw away plastic bags. Save them and use them again!
- Don't buy plastic bottles. Buy glass bottles that you can reuse.
- Recycle things you no longer need.

TAKE ACTION NOW!

2 We are destroying the places where animals make their homes. Building on countryside reduces the land available for wildlife to live on. Animals move onto farmers' fields and damage their crops and sometimes attack, injure or even kill people while searching for food. However, most people don't understand the problems that wildlife faces.

- Encourage your friends and family to protect the environment.
- Ask the government to reduce building development in the countryside.
- Ask politicians to support laws that protect endangered animals.

TAKE ACTION NOW!

3 Every time we drive our car to the shops, turn on the lights or use the washing machine, we make choices that increase air pollution. Air pollution damages our health and kills millions of people every year.

- Reduce air pollution by taking public transport, walk or cycle instead of driving.
- Use less energy at home. Save electricity: turn off lights, computers and other electrical equipment.
- Buy locally grown food – transporting it produces less pollution.

Grammar

- 6 Read the grammar box and choose alternatives.

Modal verbs: ability

Use can, could and be able to to describe ability.

In the ¹*present/past*, use can/can't to say that you know or don't know how to do something.

I can speak French very well.

I can't play any instruments.

Also use be able to to talk about present abilities.

This is less common than can.

I'm able to speak three languages fluently.

Use could or was/were able to for general ability in the ²*past/future*.

I could/was able to play the piano when I was younger.

I couldn't/wasn't able to swim until I was ten.

Use was able to to talk about ability to do a ³*single action/repeated actions* in the past.

The manager was there, so I was able to explain the problem to her.

I wasn't able to help my sister put up shelves.

Use will be able to for a future ability.

I'll be able to order food in Spanish.

Use a form of be able to with the present perfect and infinitive.

I've never been able to cook well.

I hope to be able to order a meal in French!

- 7 a 7.3 Listen and notice the pronunciation of to.

GOING PLACES ADVICE FORUM

Hey, has anyone been to Peru? I'm going there next month on a guided tour to see the Amazon jungle and to visit the Inca city of Machu Picchu. I need to travel as light as possible but take everything I'll really need. What I should take? – Alison

You'll need a good quality backpack and some comfortable walking boots ... and the right clothes for all the different places you're planning to visit. – Max

Yes, it's very hot and humid in the Amazon. Take fast-drying clothes so you can wash and dry them quickly overnight. – Penny

Remember that you'll need extra clothes to keep you warm in Machu Picchu as it gets cold at night. – Sue

You can buy sweaters and gloves quite cheaply in Peru so you don't need to pack those. Wait until you get there so you can save space in your luggage. – Zak

I recommend taking plastic bags for keeping your documents, cash and phone safe and so they don't get wet. Don't forget to take a portable charger so that you can recharge your phone. – Maggie

Insect repellent is very important to keep insects away from you but you can probably buy it there. – Tom

Make sure you take a hat and sunglasses to protect you from the sun. You should also take a waterproof jacket for when it rains in the jungle. – Charlie

You'll need a good digital camera in order to take really high-quality photos of the wildlife. – Isa

Grammar

- 4 Read the grammar box. Underline more examples of language for expressing purpose in the posts.

Expressing purpose

Use (in order) to + infinitive to state the purpose of an action. In order to is usually more formal.

I'm going to Peru to visit Machu Picchu.

You'll need a good digital camera in order to take really high-quality photos.

To express purpose, also use so (that) + modal verb. There is no difference in meaning between so and so that.

Take fast-drying clothes so that you can wash and dry them quickly.

Take a portable charger so you can recharge your phone.

Use to + infinitive or for + verb + ing to talk about the purpose of something.

You'll need extra clothes to keep you warm.

I recommend taking plastic bags for keeping your documents safe.

- 5 a 7.6 Listen and notice the pronunciation of to, for and that.

- 1 Take plastic bags to store your documents.
- 2 You'll need a pair of good binoculars for watching wildlife.

Reading

1 Look at the photos and discuss the questions.

- 1 What are the people doing?
- 2 What connects all the people in the photos?
- 3 Have you done any of these things? What happened?

2 a Read the article about someone who overcame a difficult challenge. Which of the people in photos A–F is it about?

Hugh Herr was born in Pennsylvania, USA. Since he was a child, he had loved rock climbing, and by age 17 he was considered one of the best climbers in the country. Then something terrible happened. In 1982, he and a friend were caught in a snowstorm during a climb. They got lost in the woods for three nights in below-zero temperatures. Thankfully, they were found by the rescue team just in time and taken to hospital by helicopter. Unfortunately, by the time they were rescued, they were badly injured. Herr lost both legs because of the extreme cold. Sadly, one member of the rescue team was killed by an avalanche.

Amazingly, only months after this tragic accident, Herr was climbing again! He had designed special false new legs, which helped him to climb better than ever before!

After his climbing career ended, Herr decided to help other disabled people by developing better arms and legs for them. At that time, computer technology wasn't being used in this field. However, today, Herr runs a laboratory that designs and makes computer-controlled legs, arms and hands. He is recognised as a leader in the field. Because of him, many people are being given opportunities they never had before.

Grammar

3 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Passives: present and past

Use the passive voice:

- to focus on the ¹person or thing that something happens to/the person or thing that does the action.
...he and a friend were caught in a snowstorm.
- when you ²know/don't know who or what does/did the action.
...many people are being given opportunities they never had before.
- when it is ³obvious/not obvious or not important who or what does/did the action.
At that time, computer technology wasn't being used (by scientists/doctors).

To mention who or what does the action, use by:

They were found by the rescue team just in time.

To form the passive, use the correct form of be + ⁴infinitive/past participle of the verb.

Active: They recognise him as a leader in his field.

Passive: He is recognised as a leader in his field.

b Read the article again and answer the questions.

- 1 What was Hugh Herr's favourite sport as a young man?
- 2 Was he good at the sport?
- 3 How did he lose his legs?
- 4 How was he able to start climbing again?
- 5 What did he do when his climbing career ended?

4 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which of the geographical features in Exercise 3 do you have in your country?
- 2 In which other countries can you see them?

COPPER CANYON MEXICO

Discover what Mexico has to offer. You can find rainforests, deserts, high mountains and dark caves as well as all kinds of plants and animals. Explore some of Mexico's most fantastic natural scenery in the Copper Canyon, which is located in the state of Chihuahua. This is home to the Raramuri people, who live in the deep valleys, where they follow a traditional way of life.

One of the top sights is The Basaseachic Waterfall, which is the second highest waterfall in Mexico. It is surrounded by thick forest and hiking paths offer beautiful views of the falls.

To help you explore the Copper Canyon, you can hire a tour guide, whose knowledge of the area will make your experience even more interesting.

STEEPHILL COVE UK

Visit Steephill Cove on the Isle of Wight, a small island off the south coast of England. The cove is hidden between high, rocky cliffs. To get there, you have to go on foot along a narrow path, which takes you down a steep hill to the village. When you get to the bottom, you will see a colourful bay with fishing boats floating near the sandy shore. Children love climbing over the rocks looking for rock pools, where they can find all kinds of small animals and swim in the clear waters.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK USA

For anyone who loves nature, Montana's Glacier National Park is an experience not to be missed. It has everything, including rocky mountains with snow-covered peaks, amazing waterfalls, clear rivers and deep lakes. The reserve, where you can see bears and other wildlife, is the perfect place for nature lovers to visit.

One of the best times to go is in September, when there are fewer tourists.

Grammar

- 5 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Non-defining relative clauses

Use non-defining relative clauses to add extra information about a person, thing or place.

Use 1 who/which for people and 2 who/which for things. Don't use that.

This ancient mountain, which is nearly 2,000 metres high, gives ...

This is home to the Raramuri people, who live in the deep valleys ...

Use 3 where/when for places and 4 where/when for time.

The reserve, where you can see bears, wolves and other wildlife, is ...

One of the best times to go is in September, when there are fewer tourists.

Use whose for possession.

Here are some of the top spots, whose beauty you will never forget.

Use commas to separate a non-defining relative clause from the rest of the sentence. They show that this is extra information and is not necessary for the sentence to make sense.

- 6 a 8.8 Listen and notice the pronunciation of the words when, where and whose. How do we pronounce the letters wh?

- 1 The reserve, where you can see bears and wolves ...

- 7 I usually buy heavy goods online - I don't have to carry them, they're delivered to my home.
- 8 I don't like buying clothes online - it often takes a long time to get a refund if you return them.
- 9 I once had to cancel an order because the goods didn't arrive on time.

b Work in pairs and compare your answers. Do you agree or disagree?

3 a Read the title of the article. What do you think the author of the article will say about shopping habits?

b Read the article and check your ideas.

The future of shopping

Modern technology has changed the world around us in nearly every way and it has definitely changed the way we shop. In the past, most goods were bought on the high street, but what does the future of shopping look like?

Thanks to the internet, online shopping has grown fast. It's quick, easy and convenient, and it offers a huge range of choices and competitive prices. Mobile technology has also made it even easier to shop online and many experts predict that ninety-five percent of purchases will probably be made on the internet by 2040.

If today's trends continue, shops as we know them today will no longer be needed. Staff will be replaced by software and if that happens, thousands of high street jobs will be lost. In fact, many high street shops are already being used as places where customers can look at the products they are interested in, but the actual purchases are made online.

Many huge shopping centres have been built in the past thirty years. However, centres that were once busy and successful are now closing down. As a result, companies that run these centres are being forced to think differently about the way they plan and run their businesses. Shopping centres can no longer be just about shopping and the people who run them have realised that customers need to be given a more entertaining experience which offers both shopping and leisure.

Grammar

- 4 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives. Then find examples in the article.

Passives: all tenses

Passives can be used with all tenses.

To form the passive, use the correct form of ¹be/have + ²past participle/infinitive.

Present simple: The goods are bought online.

Present continuous: Many high street shops are being used as places where customers...

Present perfect: Many huge shopping centres have been built in the past thirty years.

Past simple: Most goods were bought on the high street.

Future: Ninety-five percent of purchases will be made on the internet.

To form the passive with modal verbs, use the correct form of the modal + be + past participle.

Thousands of high street jobs could be lost.

- 5 a 9.1 Listen and notice the pronunciation of the words in bold. Which word is stressed?

- 1 Most purchases will be made online.
- 2 The goods have to be paid for online.
- 3 Many huge shopping centres have been built.
- 4 What can be done?
- 5 Customers must be given a more entertaining experience.

- b Listen again and repeat.

- 6 Rewrite the sentences using the passive and by when necessary.

- 1 Technology has changed the way we shop today.
The way we shop today has been changed by technology.
- 2 Soon we will do most of our shopping online.
- 3 Many people have already lost their jobs in shops.
- 4 Online businesses must still solve some problems.
- 5 Online customers often return clothes because they don't fit.
- 6 They are now developing new software so it is easier to get the right size.
- 7 Remote-controlled drones may soon deliver small parcels.

- 7 a Work in pairs and read the questions. Answer using the prompts and the correct form of the passive.

- 1 What sort of things have always been done in high street shops?

- a goods / buy / sell

Goods have always been bought and sold.

- b cash / accept

- c shops / close early / Sundays

- 2 How will most shopping be done in the future?

Reading

1 Look at the photos and discuss the questions.

- 1 What kind of lives do you think the people in the photos have?
- 2 Would you like to have the same kind of life as any of these people? Why/Why not?

2 a Read the story. What decision did Paolo make?

Do you ever wonder how your life could have been different? If you had chosen University A instead of University B, or gone out one night instead of staying home, would your life have changed in some way?

My friend Paolo often tells a story about a big decision. He was working for a big company and one day his boss asked him if he'd consider moving to their new office – in Singapore! Paolo thought about it for a long time. On the one hand, he thought it would be an excellent opportunity, but on the other hand, he liked his home town and he was very happy there. He had lots of friends and his family didn't want him to leave, either. So, what did he do? He tossed a coin. If it was heads, he'd go and if it was tails, he'd stay in his town. He threw it up in the air, caught it, closed his eyes for a second and when he opened them he saw it was heads. He was moving to Asia!

In Singapore, he met some people who had a great idea for a dating app (you probably know the one!) and within six months he had started a new business with them. Now he and his partners are very successful and Paolo travels all over the world for his business, including trips to his home town sometimes. He also met his future wife on the app!

I asked him one day if he ever regretted his decision and he said 'I think if I'd stayed in my home town, I might have been happy. It's a nice place and it's full of people I love.'

I'm glad that I made the decision to go, though. If I hadn't moved to Singapore, so many brilliant things wouldn't have happened in my life and I thank my lucky coin every day. I still keep it with me!

b Read the story again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why was it a difficult decision to make?
- 2 How did Paolo decide whether to stay in his home town?
- 3 Was Paolo's move to Singapore a success? Why/Why not?

3 a Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 How many of the decisions below have you made?
- 2 What happened?
- 3 How did you make your decision?
 - choose which subjects to study at school/university
 - buy a house/flat
 - choose what pet to get
 - change job
 - save or spend your money
 - move abroad for work/study
 - buy a new computer or go on holiday

b Discuss the questions. How do you make important decisions? Would you toss a coin to make a decision? Why/Why not?

Grammar

4 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternatives.

Third conditional

To form the third conditional, use if + past perfect + would/wouldn't have + past participle.

If I hadn't moved to Singapore, so many incredible things wouldn't have happened in my life.

Use the third conditional to talk about actions or events in the 1 present/past that did or did not happen and the 2 imaginary/real results of this action or event.

If you had chosen University A instead of University B, would your life have changed in some way?

If Paolo hadn't moved to Singapore, he wouldn't have started his own company

To make the result 3 more/less likely, use could or might instead of would.

If I'd stayed in my home town, I might've been happy.

5 a 9.3 Listen and notice the pronunciation of would have, might have and wouldn't have.

- 1 What would have happened?
- 2 Things might have changed.
- 3 We wouldn't have known.

4 Does he feel he made the right decision? Why/Why not?

b Listen again and repeat.

6 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 If she _____ (take) the job, she would have moved to London.
- 2 If they _____ (not / read) the advertisement, they wouldn't have known about the opportunities abroad.
- 3 If I hadn't gone to Turkey, I _____ (not / meet) Andy.
- 4 I _____ (might / become) a scientist if I'd been better at science at school.
- 5 I'd have told you what happened if you _____ (ask) me.

7 Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- 1 If I hadn't come here today, I ...
- 2 If I'd studied harder at school, I ...
- 3 My life would have been very different if I hadn't ...
- 4 If I'd listened to my parents, I would have ...
- 5 If I'd been born in another country, I would never have ...

10A Education

- ▶ Goal: report opinions
- ▶ Grammar: reported statements
- ▶ Vocabulary: education

Vocabulary and reading

- 1 Discuss the questions. Do you think schooldays are the best days of your life? Why/Why not?
- 2 Match questions 1–4 with answers a–d.
 - 1 What kind of school did you go to?
 - 2 Did you enjoy your time at school?
 - 3 Did your time at school help you in later life?
 - 4 What advice would you give to students at school now?
 - a You shouldn't spend all your time revising for tests or worrying about if you're doing well. You should enjoy your life, too!
 - b Yes. It taught me that it's OK to fail as long as you don't give up. I didn't pass all my exams first time, but I took them again and got good results.
 - c Not really. I didn't like secondary school at all as it was all about passing exams. I got low grades because I found most subjects really boring.
 - d After primary school, I went away to a boarding school, a kind of private school that you live in. You pay high fees to go there so not many people can afford it. Some people think it sounds amazing, but I'd have preferred to attend a state school like my friends.
- 3 a What verbs can you use with the words in the box? Use Exercise 2 to help you.

an exam a subject high grades qualifications school attend/enjoy school, find school boring

- b Read opinions 1–8 and choose the correct alternatives.
 - 1 Going away to boarding/secondary school would be fun.
 - 2 Private/Primary schools are better than state schools.
 - 3 The most important thing about school is passing/making tests and winning/getting qualifications.
 - 4 Doing well/good at school means you'll have a happy life.
 - 5 Students spend too much of their time revising for/having and getting/taking tests.
 - 6 If a student doesn't like a subject/topic at school, they should be able to choose to stop studying it.
 - 7 It's wrong for rich families to be able to pay/spend fees to get a better education for their children.
 - 8 Getting low tests/grades means you're not intelligent.
- 4 Work in pairs. Do you agree with any of the opinions in Exercise 3b? Which one(s)? Why?

Looking back at your schooldays

Last month we asked people in our group about their experiences of school. Here are some of the results.

1 What kind of school did you go to?

Over half of the people said they had gone to state schools and about 30 percent told us they had gone to private schools. Some people said they had attended a private primary school followed by a state secondary school. Not many people in the group said they had gone to boarding school.

2 Did you enjoy your time at school?

Everybody said there were always good and bad things about school and that some subjects had been interesting and some hadn't been interesting at all! They had all sat exams and passed some and failed some. Generally, though, people say they enjoyed school. Most told us that the two things they really remembered were the teachers and then the fun they had had with their friends.

3 Do you feel your time at school has helped you in later life?

The majority of readers said they thought their schools had helped them to get to where they were. Most people told us that they now had interesting careers or were studying courses that they enjoyed and that school had helped them achieve this.

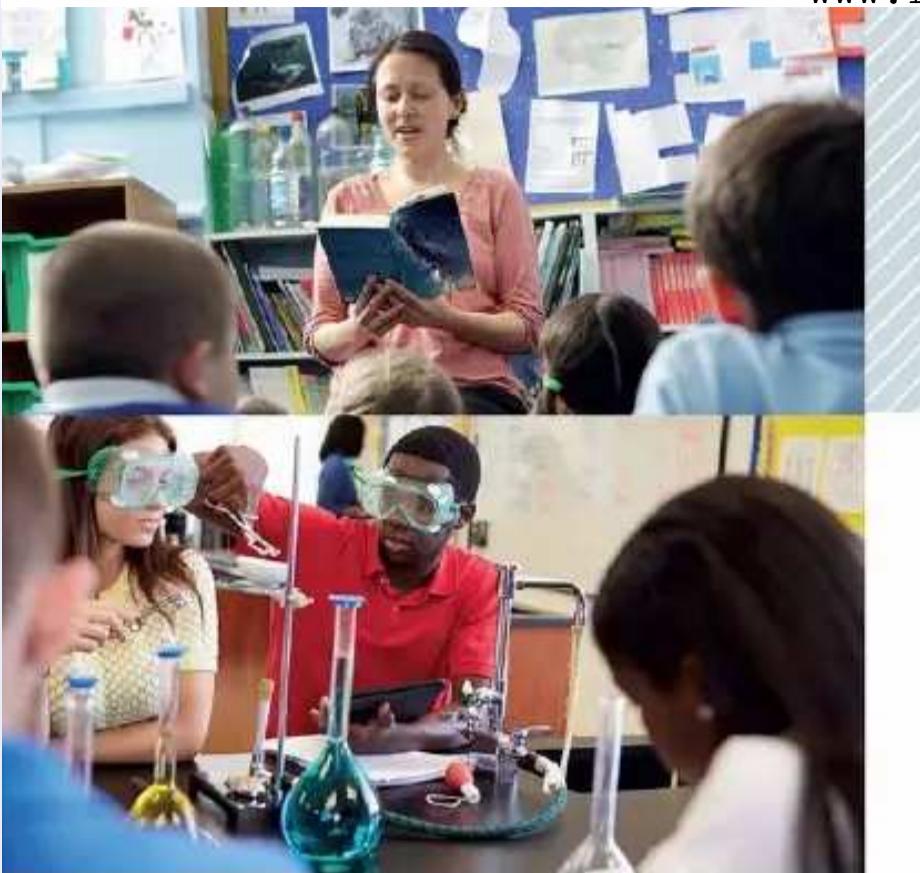

4 What advice would you give to students at school now?

Most people said that the best idea was to make the most of the opportunities school offers and try to do well. However, they also said those years had been the best time to make good friends and have fun!

5 Read the report about school experiences. What are your answers to questions 1–4 in the report?

6 Read the report again and answer the questions.

- 1 How many people attended state schools?
- 2 How many people went to boarding schools?
- 3 What did most people remember about school?
- 4 Did people think school had helped them?

Grammar

- 7 Read the grammar box and choose the correct alternative.

Reported statements

To repeat what someone says to us, make the following changes:

- 1 Use say and tell to report what someone says.
- 2 Move all tenses one step back into the ¹past/present.
Present simple → Past simple
'The best idea is to make the most of the opportunities school offers,' the majority said.
- 3 Present continuous → Past continuous
The majority said the best idea was to make the most of the opportunities school offered.
- 4 Present continuous → Past continuous
'We are studying courses we enjoy,' they said.
- 5 They said they were studying courses they enjoyed.
- 6 Past simple → Past perfect
We attended a private primary school, some people said.
Some people told us they had attended a private primary school.
- 7 Present perfect → Past perfect
'Our schools have helped us,' they said.
- 8 They said their schools had helped them.
- 9 Will(future) → Would
'We will get qualifications which will help us get good jobs,' these people said.
- 10 These people said they would get qualifications which would help them get good jobs.
- 11 Sometimes it isn't necessary to change the tense, when what we are saying is still true now.
Tom said that he likes school (Tom still likes school now.)
- 12 It also isn't necessary to change the tense if say/tell is used in the present tense.
Some people say schooldays are the best days of your life.

- 8 a 10.1 Listen and notice the pronunciation of 'd'.

- 1 Some people told us they'd gone to private schools.
- 2 One person told me he'd failed some exams.
- 3 Some people said they'd attended a private school.
- 4 They said they'd enjoyed school.

- 9 Complete the texts with the correct form of the verbs in the box.

be (x3) do like say study tell

- 1 A lot of people told us they 1 not 2 very well at school because they 2 not 3 some of the subjects very much. Scientists have said that this 3 normal and that students 4 hard if they enjoy what they are learning.
- 2 Most people told us that their time at school 5 very happy. They 6 they had enjoyed most of the lessons. When we asked what they thought could be better, they 7 us that sometimes the classes 8 too large in schools in the city.

- 10 Write sentences reporting what each person said.

- 1 'I don't want to go to university.' John told me.
John told me he didn't want to go to university.
- 2 'My mother didn't go to a boarding school.' Nina said.
3 'Education will be free in the future,' Mark told us.
- 4 'I'm still studying at university.' Jamie said. 'But my sister is working for a big IT company.'
- 5 'Schooldays were the best days,' my grandmother says.

10B Green cities

- ▶ Goal: talk about improving your town or city
- ▶ Grammar: verb patterns
- ▶ Vocabulary: suggestions and improvements

Vocabulary and reading

- 1 Look at the photos and discuss the questions.
 - 1 What kinds of transport can you see? How often do you use them?
 - 2 What's public transport like where you live?
- 2 a Read the introduction to the article below. Which problems are mentioned? What suggestions and recommendations do you think people will make?

What can we do to make our cities greener?

As more and more people move to the city, the problems of air pollution, traffic jams and lack of green spaces are increasing. These problems will continue to get worse unless we find solutions. What can we do to make our cities greener?

Comments

We should encourage people to join car-sharing schemes. He should refuse to allow companies to build houses on parkland.

My parents have warned me not to ride my bike on busy main roads, it's too dangerous. The mayor must promise to provide more cycle lanes.

How about persuading more employers to offer loans to their employees to buy bicycles?

I recommend providing free parking facilities near metro and train stations.

I'd advise the mayor to install more charging points for electric cars.

I suggest reducing fares for public transport. People are always complaining that it's too expensive.

We should consider raising the price of parking in the city centre.

People need to start thinking about the environment more and

- b Read the comments. Are any of your ideas mentioned? How would the suggestions help to solve the problems?

Encouraging people to join car-sharing schemes would help to reduce traffic jams.

- c Have any of the solutions been successfully tried in your town or city?

- 3 Choose the correct alternatives. Use the phrases in bold in the article to help you.

- 1 She persuaded/warned me to use my bicycle by telling me how much weight I'd lose.
- 2 People start/suggest complaining when you tell them to stop using their cars.
- 3 You should promise/refuse to go if they don't pay for your travel expenses.
- 4 I promise/refuse to leave the car at home next week. I'll cycle to work instead.
- 5 We should encourage/warn people to walk to work.
- 6 Several people have warned/promised us not to cycle on the busy main road.
- 7 I'm considering/recommending selling my car and buying a motorbike.
- 8 You should avoid/start travelling at that time, unless you really need to.
- 9 If you want to be greener, I'd recommend/avoid using public transport.
- 10 I'd advise/warn you to think about how often you really need to use your car.

Grammar

- 4 Read the grammar box and complete the information with the reporting verbs in bold in Exercise 2.

Verb patterns

When we use two verbs together, the second verb is usually either the -ing form or the infinitive form with to.

Verbs + -ing form

consider, recommend, start, avoid, ¹ _____

I recommend providing free parking ...

Verbs + infinitive with to promise, ² _____

The mayor must promise to provide more cycle lanes.

Some verbs always need an object before the infinitive with to.

encourage, persuade, warn, ³ _____

We need to persuade them to offer loans.

To make an -ing form or infinitive negative, put not in front of it.

My parents have warned me not to ride my bike on busy main roads.

A few verbs take both the infinitive and the gerund.

They started arguing when they heard our suggestions.

They started to argue when they heard our suggestions.

When you learn new verbs, try to memorise whether they take a gerund or an infinitive, or both.

- 5 a 10.3 Listen and notice the pronunciation of to.

- 1 They promised to provide more cycle lanes.
- 2 I suggest cycling to work.
- 3 They warned me not to ride my bike.
- 4 We tried to persuade her to take action.

b Listen again and repeat.

- 6 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 He suggested _____ (travel) to work on foot.
- 2 We should encourage people _____ (walk or cycle) instead of using their cars.
- 3 A lot of people refuse _____ (give up) their cars and use public transport.
- 4 I recommend _____ (replace) buses with trams.
- 5 The government must promise _____ (not increase) train fares.
- 6 I think we should consider _____ (stop) cars from entering the centre.

- 7 a Think about how your town or city could be improved. Complete the sentences with your ideas.

- 1 We should encourage people to ...
- 2 I'd recommend ...
- 3 We need to start ...
- 4 We should persuade people not ...
- 5 We should consider ...
- 6 People should avoid ...

b Work in pairs and compare your answers. Give reasons for your ideas.

10C What's in a job?

- ▶ Goal: report the results of a survey
- ▶ Grammar: reported questions
- ▶ Vocabulary: work activities

Vocabulary

1 a Discuss the questions.

- 1 How do people waste time at work?
- 2 Which activities do you think waste the most time?

b Look at the survey and check your answers. Does any information surprise you?

We asked 2,000 employees how they spend their time at work.

Here are the top work time wasters.

2 Look at the photos. Which of the activities in the box can you see?

arrange (interviews/meetings) do research employ people give presentations interview people manage (projects/people/a shop) offer someone a job serve customers set up meetings write reports work in a team

A Market researcher

In my job, I do research/set up meetings for my company. I use different methods to get information. I often offer someone a job/interview people on the phone. I also use the internet to collect data. Then I have to write a report/serve customers. The documents contain all the details of my research. Sometimes I do research/give presentations to tell people about my results.

B HR officer

A big part of my job is finding suitable staff for the company. I arrange interviews/work in a team for jobs. If they're good, I offer them the job/give presentations. If they accept the job, the company then employs/serves them.

C Office manager

I'm very busy at work. I have to organise everything that happens in the office. I do things like set up meetings/write reports - I organise them and make sure everyone knows about them. When we need new staff, I also arrange/offer interviews for my boss.

D Project manager

In my job, I need to be very organised and have good communication skills. As my title says, I'm responsible for managing projects/employing people. I work with the team/presentations to get the project done and make sure everything runs smoothly.

E Shop assistant

I work in a busy bookshop so I serve customers/work in a team all day. My goal for the future is to manage/employ the bookshop myself.

4 Work in pairs. Have you done any of the activities in Exercise 2? Would you like to? Choose three activities and say when you do/did them or when/why you would like to do them.

Listening

- 5 a You're going to listen to Sharon describing her job in digital advertising. What activities do you think she does every day?

b 10.5 Listen and check your ideas.

- 6 a Match sentences 1–6 with answers a–f.

- 1 Tim asked Sharon to tell him what she did exactly.
 - 2 Then he asked her what the second part of her job was.
 - 3 He wanted to know how she did that.
 - 4 Then he asked her to give him an example.
 - 5 He wanted to know if Sharon enjoyed her job.
 - 6 Finally, he asked her if she recommended the job to other people.
- a She said there were two parts to her job. First, she wrote advertising texts for websites.
 - b Sharon said she loved it.
 - c She told him that she used key words in her texts.
 - d She said she would recommend it to anyone looking for a job in marketing.
 - e She explained that her job was to bring her customer's website to the top of online search results.
 - f She told him that a title like '10 ways to...' was good because people often searched for ways to do things.

b Work in pairs. Would you enjoy a job like Sharon's? Why/Why not?

Grammar

- 7 Read the grammar box and think of one more example of a reported question for rules 1–3.

Reported questions

1 When a question that uses the auxiliary do becomes a reported question, the tenses are changed in the same way as when reporting a statement. The auxiliaries do (and also did) are removed to form a reported question.

'How do you make that?' he asked her.

He asked her how she made that.

2 Some questions don't use do/did. Change the order of the auxiliary verb and the subject (are and you), so that it looks more like a statement than a question.

'Where are you going?' she asked him.

She asked him where she was going.

3 Use ask somebody to/for to report requests.

'Could you give me an example?'

I asked her to give me an example.

- 8 a 10.6 Listen and notice the intonation in the direct and reported questions.

1 'Do you ever recommend it to other people?'

I asked her if she ever recommended it to other people.

2 'How do you do that?'

He asked her how she did that.

3 'Could you give me an example?'

I asked her to give me an example.

- b Choose the correct alternative.

In direct/reported questions the speaker's voice goes up then down at the end.

- c Listen again and repeat.

- 9 Report the questions from a survey.

1 What time do you start work/studying?

The interviewer asked me/wanted to know what time I started work/studying.

2 What time do you finish?

3 Where do you work/study?

Develop your reading

- » Goal: understand an article
- » Focus: reading for general understanding

- 1 Which of the following are the most important qualities of a good friend?
 - a They always tell you the truth.
 - b They are good listeners.
 - c They make time for you.
 - d They are loyal and trustworthy.
 - e They make you feel good about yourself.
- 2 You're going to read about the qualities of a real friend. First, read the Focus box. What kind of words help you get a general understanding of a writer's message?

Reading for general understanding

Before you read a text in detail, it is a good idea to look through it quickly first to get a general idea of the content and identify the writer's message.

To do this, focus on content words - adjectives, nouns and verbs - not grammar words.

For many of us, real friends are like family. They are very important for our health and happiness. They listen to us when we have problems and they help us when we need it. They celebrate our happy moments, too.

Don't stop if you don't understand a word. Keep reading. You don't have to understand every word to get the main ideas.

- 3 a Read the article and match sentences a–e in Exercise 1 with paragraphs 1–5.
 - b Underline the words that help you identify the main idea in each paragraph.
 - 4 Read the article again and answer the questions.
- According to the text ...
- 1 how are real friends like family?
 - 2 why are good friends important to us?
 - 3 why is it sometimes difficult to meet up with friends?
 - 4 in what way are friends good listeners?
 - 5 how do they make you feel good about yourself?
 - 6 why do they tell you when you do something wrong?
 - 7 why is it OK to tell your real friends secrets?
- 5 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.
- 1 Which of the ideas in the article do you agree/disagree with?
 - 2 Do you have a best friend?
 - 3 Are your friends similar to you or very different?
 - 4 Do you think you are a good friend? Why/Why not?

The qualities of a real friend

Real friends are like family. You can always depend on them to be there for you. They are very important for our health and happiness. Here are five key qualities of real friendships.

- 1 We all lead busy lives, trying to deal with work and family, so it can be difficult to find the time to keep a friendship going. However, real friends always make time for you. They call you to chat about your latest news and take advantage of your shared interests and activities, like going to the cinema or the gym together.
- 2 Real friends are interested in what you say. They don't just talk about themselves. They listen to you as well and pay attention to what you say. They don't keep looking at their phones when you're talking.
- 3 Real friends encourage you and make you feel happy and self-confident. A real friend never makes you feel bad or stupid. When you're feeling sad and depressed, real friends try to make you feel cheerful again.
- 4 Good friends are honest with you. They tell you when you do something wrong, but they do it in a nice way. They don't do it to be cruel or unkind but because they want to help you be a better person. This kind of honesty is the sign of real friendship.
- 5 You can share your personal secrets with a real friend and trust them not to tell other people. You know your secrets are safe with them. And real friends don't say nasty things about you when you're not around.

3 Match words and phrases 1–7 with the words and phrases in bold in the job application.

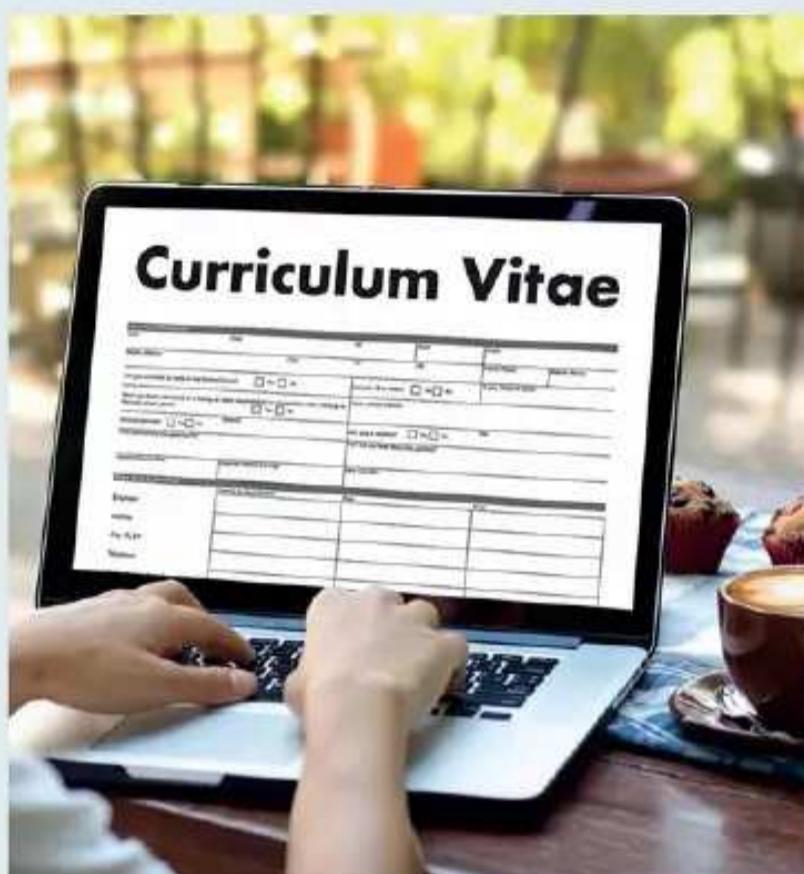

- 1 think about
- 2 job
- 3 at the moment
- 4 need
- 5 because
- 6 I'm excited about getting an answer from you
- 7 more or less

4 Read the Focus box. What do paragraphs do?Using paragraphs in a job application

Pieces of writing are usually organised into paragraphs. Paragraphs make it easier for a reader to find the information they need. Each paragraph usually deals with a different part of the topic, so it's easy for a reader to know where they can find the information they need. Many job applications are organised in the following way:

First paragraph: This tells the reader why you are writing.

Middle paragraph(s): This is where you communicate the main information, what makes you a good candidate for the job, including details of education and work

5 Look at the job application again. In which paragraph do you find the following information?

- 1 what you want to happen next
- 2 your reason for writing
- 3 a description of qualifications
- 4 a description of personality
- 5 a description of work experience
- 6 where you heard about the job

6 Look at the sentences and decide which paragraph of an application they might appear in.

- 1 I have very strong communication skills.
- 2 I'm writing to apply for the position of IT Instructor.
- 3 I am a qualified accountant.
- 4 I would be happy to attend an interview.
- 5 I saw the position advertised on Maspalomas.com.
- 6 I work well in a team.
- 7 Many thanks for your consideration.
- 8 Yours sincerely

Develop your listening

▶ Goal: understand a podcast

▶ Focus: recognising positive and negative attitudes

1 Look at the photo and discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you think it is?
 - 2 Where do you think you might find them?
 - 3 Are they a good idea?
- 2 1.7 Listen to a podcast about sleep. What two things do sleep scientists say about sleep?
- 3 Read the Focus box. What type of words can we listen for if we want to know how someone feels about what they are saying?

Recognising positive and negative attitudes

People show how they feel about what they are saying in a few different ways.

The way they introduce what they are saying

It's not good news for people who have a full-time job.

Unfortunately, these problems are getting worse.

The bad news is that people are not as healthy as they should be.

The adverbs and adjectives they use

People don't take enough breaks, which is not great for them.

I think that's going to be a very positive change.

They want us all to sleep at work. That's an amazing idea.

A lot of companies do this really well.

The situation is getting better.

The tone of voice they use

As well as listening to the words someone says, we can also listen to how they say them. Someone's face can also tell us a lot about how they're feeling.

4 Listen to the podcast again and complete the sentences. Tick the sentences where the speaker is talking about something positive. Put a cross where the speaker is talking about something negative.

- 1 ... but the _____ is not many adults get eight hours a night.
- 2 This is not _____ for the evening people, but we all have to get up early to go to work.
- 3 And it's _____ that many of us go to bed late because we finish work late.
- 4 So, it seems like the situation is _____ for anyone: no one gets enough sleep!
- 5 However, the situation is getting _____.
- 6 Isn't that a _____?
- 7 And another _____ change is that more people work online.
- 8 And the second thing sleep scientists tell us is that 5 Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 What is an evening type?
- 2 What is a morning type?
- 3 What often stops us getting enough sleep?
- 4 What are companies recognising about tired employees?
- 5 What will companies do?
 - a let people sleep at work
 - b check how long people sleep
 - c give people more holidays
- 6 Why is working online a good thing for some people?

6 a 1.8 Listen to the comments of some listeners about the podcast. Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 Speaker 1 is talking about sleeping at work/home. He feels positive/negative about this.
- 2 Speaker 2 is talking about being able to go to work early/late. She feels positive/negative about this.
- 3 Speaker 3 is talking about his company/friends knowing how much sleep he gets. He feels positive/negative about this.
- 4 Speaker 4 is speaking about what sleep scientists call medicine/work. She feels positive/negative about this.
- 5 Speaker 5 is talking about sleeping/working in the office. He feels positive/negative about this.
- 6 Speaker 6 is talking about working/sleeping. She feels positive/negative about this.

b Listen again and check your answers. Write down the words/phrases that helped you decide if the speaker felt positive or negative.7 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which of the comments about the podcast are closest to the way you feel?
- 2 How many hours of sleep do you need?
- 3 Are you a morning or an evening person?
- 4 What do you do when you can't sleep?

Develop your reading

► Goal: understand a news story

► Focus: reading for specific information

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you read any interesting news stories recently? If so, who were they about and what happened?
- 2 What kind of news stories are you interested in? For example, sport, politics, crime, funny stories etc.
- 3 Look at the photos and read the headline of the news story. What do you think it's going to be about?
- 4 Read the Focus box. What can help us find the key details in a news story?

Reading for specific information

When we read a news story, we look through it quickly to get the key information. To do this successfully, it helps to look for the answers to these Wh-questions:

Who is it about?

What happened?

Where did it happen?

Why/How did it happen?

When did it happen?

What happened in the end?

4 Read the news story and answer the questions.

Underline the parts of the article with the specific information.

- 1 Who is the article about?
- 2 When did the event take place?
- 3 Where did it take place?
- 4 What happened to the Browns?
- 5 Why did it happen?
- 6 What happened in the end?

5 Read the story again and answer the questions.

Underline the parts of the article with the specific information.

- 1 Why did the Browns need to go back to their boat?
- 2 Why didn't their boat come back?
- 3 Why did they swim away from the shore?
- 4 How did they feel while they were out at sea?
- 5 How did they feel after their rescue?

6 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Who was responsible for the situation in the story?
- 2 How could you stop this situation happening again?
- 3 Have you ever had a lucky escape? If so, what happened?

BRITISH DIVERS IN LUCKY ESCAPE

A British couple had a lucky escape last week after they were lost at sea for five terrifying hours. The couple, both in their thirties, were starting a ten-day diving holiday off the coast of Indonesia. With its warm waters and variety of fish and other sea life, this is an excellent place to go diving.

Jim and Sally Brown were looking forward to their holiday but on their first morning, they had a frightening experience. That morning, the Browns went out with a dive boat and entered the water to explore. However, after only a short time under water, they had to go back up to their boat because the sea was getting rough and they couldn't see well. However, when they got to the surface, their boat wasn't there any more. Unknown to them, it was taking other divers to different places along the coast.

The Browns were only a short distance from land but they had to swim away from the shore to avoid some nearby rocks. Then the waves pulled them further out to sea, the sky went very dark and it started to rain. Their five-hour nightmare began.

When people realised that the Browns were missing, two helicopters and more than 20 boats started searching for them. After five hours, the crew of one of the boats finally saw them. They pulled them out of the water and took them back to land. They were thirsty and tired – but they were alive!

According to Sally Brown, they were afraid they were going to die. They were looking out for sharks the whole time. 'We'd like to thank everyone who looked for us. We're very grateful,' she said.

Develop your writing

Goal: write an essay

Focus: writing paragraphs

1 a Discuss the questions.

- 1 What differences are there between the way we live now and the way we lived in the past?
- 2 Is life easier or more difficult now? Think about things like travel, free time interests, housework and cooking.

b Read the essay. Does it mention any of your ideas?

Was life really better?

¹People often talk about how life was better in the past, but how true is that? Let's compare my grandparents' lives with my life today.

²Life was certainly different in my grandparents' day. There were no modern appliances such as washing machines and vacuum cleaners to make housework easy, so they had to work hard to keep their house clean and prepare their food. They also didn't have the same opportunities to enjoy themselves that we have. They couldn't travel to all the interesting places we go to on holiday and their summer holidays were usually spent at the same local beach every year. Life was harder and less interesting.

³Modern life is easier in many ways. Our kitchens are full of electrical appliances to make our lives easier, from fridges to dishwashers. We have more time to do the things we want and more things to do. We now have the opportunity to travel the world easily and experience new cultures. As a result, people are living less stressful and more interesting lives.

⁴I am not saying everything is perfect today, but for all the reasons above, I think I am very lucky compared to my grandparents!

2 Read the Focus box. How is a paragraph organised?

Writing paragraphs

A well-organised paragraph focuses on one subject (the topic).

Topic sentence

The first sentence of the paragraph usually gives the writer's main idea about the topic.

Life was certainly different in my grandparents' day.

Example sentences

The rest of the paragraph usually supports the main idea by giving reasons, examples and supporting details.

There were no modern appliances such as washing machines and vacuum cleaners to make housework easy, so they had to work hard to keep their house clean.

Conclusion sentence

A paragraph often finishes with a sentence that gives a result or conclusion.

Life was harder and less interesting.

3 Look at the third paragraph of the essay in Exercise 1b. Underline the topic sentence and example sentences. Is there a conclusion sentence?

4 Put the sentences in the correct order to make a paragraph.

- a For example, there was no social media,
- b In many ways life was easier in the past.
- c People didn't have so many things going on in their lives like we do these days.
- d so people didn't spend so much time checking what their friends were doing
- e They also didn't spend so much time watching the millions of TV programmes that we have now.
- f As a result, they spent more time talking to each other, and maybe that's a good thing.
- g and worrying if they were 'doing enough'.

Develop your listening

► Goal: understand an interview

► Focus: understanding linkers

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you think it's a good idea to take time off between finishing university and starting work? Why/Why not?
- 2 What is the difference between a 'gap year' and a 'career break'?
- 3 Is it usual for people to take gap years or career breaks in your country?
- 4 When do you think is a good time in life to take a gap year or career break?
- 5 What type of things might you do on a gap year or career break?

2 2.7 Listen to two people being interviewed and answer the questions.

- 1 What are they describing?
- 2 What did they do?

3 Read the Focus box. How can linkers help when listening?

Understanding linkers

Linkers can help us predict what's coming next when we're listening. Look at the beginning of the sentence below:

I liked my gap year, but/although/however ...

We can guess from the linkers that the speaker will now talk about something negative, perhaps the problems they had during their gap year.

Look at how the sentence changes if we change the linker:

I liked my gap year and ...

Now we might guess that the speaker will talk about the good times they had during their gap year or how it helped them.

Sometimes we will hear a linker that tells us about the result of an action:

I was very tired when I got off the plane, so ...

In this case, we can guess that the speaker will tell us about the result, perhaps that they went straight to bed when they got home.

Because tells us that we're going to hear the reason for something.

I didn't stay for a full year because ...

We might guess that this person became ill or got 4 Look at the sentences. How do you think they might finish?

- 1 I didn't take a career break, because ...
- 2 I was pretty tired, so ...
- 3 We enjoyed the food and ...
- 4 The first day we had lovely weather. However, ...
- 5 The service in the restaurant was generally good, but ...
- 6 We thought the film was good, although ...
- 7 We didn't visit them again because ...
- 8 The price of flights was really high, so ...
- 9 They gave flowers to Julia, but ...
- 10 They took his wallet and ...

5 a 2.8 Listen and choose the linker that you hear.

- 1 and/but/so
- 2 and/however/because
- 3 however/so/because
- 4 and/because/so

b Listen again. Work in pairs and predict how the speaker might finish the sentence.

c 2.9 Listen and check. Were any of your ideas correct?

6 2.7 Listen to the interview again and answer the questions. Use the linkers you hear to help you.

- 1 Why did Rob decide to have a gap year?
- 2 Rob found Mexico City quite busy. What did he decide to do?
- 3 Why did Rob leave the job that he got?
- 4 What else did Rob like about Brazil apart from the beaches?
- 5 Was Sally's gap year similar to Rob's?
- 6 Why did she decide to work during her gap year?
- 7 What didn't she like about her job?
- 8 Did they both enjoy their gap years?

7 Work in pairs and discuss which kind of gap year you would choose. Say why.

Language and cultural exchange

We offer a cultural exchange programme for people from all over the world who want to learn a new language in exchange for teaching their own language. Right now, you can choose from languages such as English, Portuguese, Spanish, Japanese and Polish. As well as learning a new language, there will be an opportunity to find out more about the countries where it is spoken. You don't have to be a professional teacher, just excited about helping other people make their first steps in learning your language!

The group meets on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 6 p.m.–8 p.m. Contact us on our website and let us know what you can offer!

- 2 Read the Focus box. How do we know if two texts have the same ideas?

Recognising similar ideas

Sometimes we may want to compare different texts to see if they contain the same ideas. When we do this, it's useful to remember that there are different ways to express similar ideas in English.

I'm really busy these days.

I don't have much time these days.

In the example above, we use an adjective, busy, and a phrase, don't have time, to express the same idea.

Sometimes ideas will be expressed using different forms of the same word:

I don't think it's interesting.

It doesn't interest me.

Sometimes we can express the same idea using both positive and negative forms.

I thought the service was pretty bad there.

That place doesn't have very good service.

- 3 Compare the two comments below. Do they express the same opinions or different ones? How do you know?

- 1 The course doesn't look very useful. I think the level is too low and the price is very high for a ten-week course.'
- 2 The course looks pretty expensive and I don't think it's going to help me very much. I think it will be too easy.'

- 4 a Match comments a–d with the most suitable adverts 1–4.

- I'd like to do something nice in the holidays before I go back to my studies, but the main problem is that I can't afford to just have a holiday and go and sit on a beach somewhere. I don't want to stay in my town and work, and I'd like to see a new place and new people.'
- I need to do something new in the evenings instead of just relaxing on the sofa. I need to be active and healthy. The main problem is I don't have much money, so I don't want to spend thousands on a gym. I also get bored doing things on my own, so it'd be nice to find something I can do with other people.'
- My perfect situation would be to go abroad for a few months. I'd love to go and live in a completely new town or city and learn about its history, as well as learning how to talk to local people! The problem is, my job makes that impossible. The next best option would be to do something similar here, I guess, maybe in the evenings or at the weekend.'
- I think it'd be nice to go somewhere completely different before I get a full-time job, even to another country for a while. I'd like to do something helpful, not just work to earn money. I have a little money saved. It'd be nice to get involved in a project, maybe like coaching kids to play football.'

 - 2 a change to office rules
 - 3 a hotel they both like
- b Listen again. Did the trip go well? Why/Why not?
- 3 Read the Focus box. What kind of things do discourse markers do?

Understanding discourse markers

People use words and phrases called 'discourse markers' when they speak, for example well, it, actually etc. Understanding these words can often help you know what's coming next in a conversation. There are several types of discourse marker:

Words/sounds like well, so, um and erm give people time to think:

A: How was the trip?

B: Well, it was interesting ...

A: Where's Basha?

B: Um. I think she went home.

I mean can be used to add extra details or make changes to what we've just said:

I think it was a good show. I mean, it's not the best I've ever seen, but I liked it.

The words actually and in fact tell you that you're going to hear information that contrasts with what you heard before, or what you expect to hear:

A: So, was the team meeting boring, as usual?

B: Actually, it was quite interesting.

Anyway and by the way can be used to change the topic of a conversation:

I don't think we'll go there again, it was terrible. Anyway, how was your weekend?

Words like Wow! and Really? can also be used to react to what someone is saying:

A: I think Penny is going to get fired.

- 4 a Look at the conversations below. What do you think B will say?

- 1 A: Did you enjoy the film?
B: Um, ...

Goal: write a guide

Focus: planning a piece of writing

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 What sort of things do you like doing when you visit a new place?
- 2 What sort of information do you need/want when you are visiting a new place?

2 Read the brochure. Who is it for and what information does it provide?

3 Read the Focus box. What are the three stages of planning?

Planning a piece of writing

When we plan a piece of writing, we start by thinking about the reader. What topic areas would they be interested in?

After that, we decide what order to put the topics in. Each topic should have a separate paragraph, so we can call this our 'paragraph plan.' Then we can make notes about each topic area to help us think about what to write.

Look at the examples below for the guide to Bath.

Paragraph plan:

Paragraph 1: Introduction to Bath

Paragraph 2: Must-see sights

Paragraph 3: Getting around

Paragraph 4: Shopping

Notes about the topic 'Getting around':

Getting around

Explore on foot/cycle

Boat trip – on river Avon

Hot-air balloon!

When we have made these notes, we decide what order we'd like to present the information and then start to put our ideas into sentences.

4 Match notes 1–11 with the paragraph headings in the box.

accommodation eating and drinking events introduction

- 1 nightclubs - The Roxy, The Zone
- 2 hotels – quite expensive in centre
- 3 music festival - May - rock
- 4 small guest houses - good value
- 5 lots of people visit - from all over the world
- 6 Christmas market - really pretty!
- 7 local restaurants - cheap, good food
- 8 capital city
- 9 1,000 years of history
- 10 international food - Central Food Market
- 11 book early - hotels get full quickly

A WARM WELCOME TO BATH

UNESCO World Heritage Site

What is there to do on a visit to Bath? More than you can imagine! The city is famous for its beautiful buildings and interesting history. There are also plenty of other things to do in Bath, with fun for all the family. Why not start planning your visit today?

You'll find a museum, gallery or attraction on every corner. When the Romans founded the city over 2,000 years ago, they built a wonderful temple and baths on top of natural hot springs. Today the Roman Baths are one of the city's most popular places to visit.

Getting around Bath is easy. It's a perfect size to explore on foot or to cycle around. If you're feeling adventurous, you can take a boat trip on the nearby River Avon, or even go on a hot-air balloon ride over the city!

Bath is famous for its variety of shops. You can choose from well-known high street department stores or small independent shops. You won't have a problem finding the perfect gift for friends and family.

Prepare

- 5 a You're going to write a guide to your town/city or a town/city you know well. First, decide who you're writing for. Is it for someone visiting, or someone planning to live there?
- b Make a list of topic areas you want to write about and make short notes for each one.
- c Work in pairs and compare your notes. Have you chosen similar things to write about?

► Goal: understand a radio programme

► Focus: predicting information

- 1 Look at the photos. What do you know or what can you guess about the hippies of the 1960s? Think about the following:

- lifestyle
- beliefs
- music
- clothes
- diet
- the environment
- money
- work

- 2 Read the Focus box. How can you predict what information you are going to hear on a radio programme?

Predicting information

Before you listen, it can be useful to try and predict what you are going to hear. Think about what you know about a topic and what you can guess about it. Doing this gives you something to focus on, which is often better than just listening 'generally'.

For example, imagine you're going to listen to a radio programme about Italian food. What do you already know about the topic?

I know that pizza and pasta are popular dishes.

What can you guess the programme might tell you about?

Maybe the show will mention less popular dishes that are also good.

Maybe the show will discuss how they prepare their food.

- 3 a 4.3 Listen to the introduction to a programme about hippies' beliefs and lifestyle. Which topics do you think the speaker might mention?

- b Predict the correct alternatives to complete the sentences.

- 1 The hippies believed/didn't believe in war.
- 2 They wanted/didn't want the same lifestyle as their parents.
- 3 They were interested/not interested in owning things.
- 4 They often lived together in large groups/in their own homes.
- 5 They cared/didn't care about the environment.
- 6 Music was/wasn't important to them.

- c 4.4 Listen to the next part of the programme and check your answers.

- 4 a In the final part of the programme, the speakers compare hippies in the 1960s with modern-day hippies. Make a list of topics/opinions/facts you might hear them talk about.

- b 4.5 Listen and check your ideas. Which things did you predict correctly?

- 5 a Match ideas 1–7 with the speakers, Maddy (M) or Lucas (L).

- 1 For today's hippies, it's just about fashion.
- 2 Today's hippies really believe in hippy ideals.
- 3 It's not enough to follow a healthy lifestyle.
- 4 Today's hippies care just as much about the environment as old hippies.
- 5 They do things that are bad for the environment.
- 6 They are more interested in owning things than older hippies.
- 7 Following a hippy lifestyle is good for young people today.

- b Listen again and check your answers. Do you agree with Maddy or Lucas?

- 6 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Does the hippy lifestyle appeal to you? Why/Why not?
- 2 Are there any modern-day hippies in your country? How do you know they are hippies? How 'real' do you think they are?

Goal: write a biography

Focus: using linkers

- 1 a What do you know about Steve Jobs' life and career?
b Read the biography and check your ideas.

Steve Jobs was, and still is, one of the most famous people in the modern world. He was a creative genius who changed the face of the computer industry.

He was born in 1955 and grew up in California. Although he was a very bright student, he was often bored with ordinary lessons. As a result, school was not a positive experience for him. After high school, he went to college, but because he didn't really know what he wanted to do with his life, he soon decided to leave. Later he spent some time travelling in India. In 1976, he started Apple Computers with his friend, Steve Wozniak. They didn't have much money when they started, so they used the family garage as their office. It was difficult at first, but that didn't stop Apple becoming one of the most successful companies in the world. Their success didn't stop there. In addition to Apple, Steve Jobs started the famous Pixar animation studio that produced animated films like Toy Story.

Steve Jobs died in 2011. However, he will always be an inspiration to everyone who is looking for a direction in life.

- 2 Read the Focus box. Why do we use linkers?

Using linkers

Linkers are words like and, but and because. We use them to connect ideas in a text. Look at the examples below of how linkers can connect ideas.

Use although, but and however to show how one event is different from another.

Although he was a very bright student, he was often bored with ordinary lessons.

It was difficult at first, but that didn't stop Apple becoming one of the most successful companies in the world.

Steve Jobs died in 2011. However, he will always be an inspiration to everyone...

Use in addition (to) to add information.

In addition to Apple, Steve Jobs started the famous Pixar animation studio.

Use because to show the reason for something.

He went to college, but because he didn't really know what he wanted to do with his life, he soon decided to leave.

Use as a result and so to show the result of an action.

He was often bored with ordinary lessons. As a result, school was not a positive experience for him.

They didn't have much money when they started, so they used the family garage as their office.

- 3 a Read the biography again and underline the linkers.

- b Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 He was tired of his town, so/although he moved away.
- 2 Their first company was a success, but/as a result their second company was less successful.
- 3 However/Although her first love was music, she actually decided to study dance.
- 4 She did very well at school, so/although she was offered the chance to go to a top university.
- 5 They toured all over the world. However/in addition, they recorded five hit records.
- 6 He was interested in acting. However/But, his family didn't have the money to send him to theatre school.

Goal: understand a magazine article

Focus: understanding paragraph structure

1 a Discuss the questions.

- 1 What are the Oscars?
- 2 Who receives Oscar awards?
- b Read the first paragraph of the article. What makes the Oscars awards special?
- 2 Read the Focus box. What does each kind of sentence in a paragraph do?

Understanding paragraph structure

Understanding the structure of a paragraph can help you to read a text more easily. Texts often contain topic sentences, example sentences and conclusion sentences.

Topic sentence

The topic sentence gives the writer's main idea.

When a film is successful it's usually the actors who get all the attention in the media, but at the Oscars this is different.

Example sentence(s)

An example sentence supports the main idea by giving more information, such as examples or reasons.

The actors are just one part of what makes a film successful. Behind the scenes there is a hard-working team that makes it all happen.

Conclusion sentence

A paragraph can also contain a sentence where the writer makes a conclusion which often relates to the example sentences.

They are just as important as the big stars and the Oscars recognise many of these people who we never usually consider.

3 a Read the first sentence of each paragraph in the article and match topics a–e with paragraphs 1–5.

- a making the film look perfect
- b making everything happen
- c the person who tells people what to do
- d it's not only about the actors
- e designing the actors' clothes

b Read the whole article and check your answers.

4 Read the article again. Are sentences 1–5 true (T) or false (F)? Underline the sentences in the article that help you decide.

- 1 The actors are more important than the rest of the team.
- 2 Directors only work with the film crew.
- 3 The photography in a film is not connected to the story.
- 4 Costume designers need a wide range of skills.
- 5 The producer's role is only to find the money to pay for the actors.

- 1 When a film is successful, it's usually the actors who get all the attention in the media, but at the Oscars this is different. The actors are just one part of what makes a film successful. Behind the scenes there is a hard-working team that makes it all happen. They are just as important as the big stars and the Oscars recognise many of these people who we never usually consider.
- 2 One of the most important people behind the scenes is the director. The director's job is to give directions to the actors and the film crew. However, a director doesn't work alone. He or she needs to work closely with lots of other people behind the scenes.
- 3 All films need good photography to help develop the story. The cinematographer is the person who is in charge of shooting the film. He or she makes sure that the photography supports the story. The cinematographer has a lot of responsibility and leads the teams in charge of lighting and cameras.
- 4 Another essential person that we often forget about is the costume designer – the person who designs what the actors wear. The costume designer needs to understand exactly what the director wants and design the most suitable costumes. The costumes have to be comfortable so the actors can move easily, but at the same time they need to match the characters the actors are playing. It's a job that requires imagination, research and you have to know how to make things!
- 5 It could be said that the most important person in the creation of a film is the producer. Without a producer there would be no film at all! The producer steers the film through all its stages. He or she finds the money to finance the whole film and also works closely with many other people behind the scenes. During the whole filming process, it is the producer's job to make sure that everything goes well.

Develop your writing

Goal: write a personal email
Focus: using informal words and expressions

- 1 Read Fran's email. What event does Fran invite Kate to? What clothes does she say Kate should wear?

Hey Kate,

How's it going? Sorry I haven't been in touch for ages. I wanted to write, but it's been so busy at work as usual. How's life? Are you still enjoying Madrid? I hope your job is less crazy than the last time I talked to you!

So, I just wanted to ask if you're doing anything on 16th July. I have some relatives who live near Madrid and they've asked me to come over to their place for a party in the afternoon. Do you fancy coming with me? We can stay with my aunt and uncle for the weekend, so it wouldn't need to be expensive. It's not a really formal thing, by the way, it's just going to be a big picnic so casual clothes will be fine.

Anyway, let me know what you think and we can make some plans. It would be awesome to get together again!

Speak soon!

Lots of love,

Fran

- 2 Read the Focus box. What is the style of an informal email similar to?

Using informal words and expressions

When you write a personal email to someone you know well, you write as if you are speaking to the person directly. You can use many of the same words and expressions that you use when you are having a conversation. For example:

Start a new statement using so

So, I just wanted to ask if you're doing anything ...

Show a change or contrast of topic using anyway, by the way

Anyway, let me know what you think

It's not a really formal thing, by the way ...

Ask direct questions

Are you still enjoying San Francisco?

Use short forms

How's life?

... they've asked me to come.

Use informal words and phrases

Hi Kate, how's it going?

I haven't been in touch for ages.

Do you fancy ...?

It would be awesome.

- 3 Match the phrases in bold in the email in Exercise 1 with the less informal phrases below.

a long time great Hello how are you?

Develop your reading

- Goal: understand a factual article
 Focus: guessing unknown words

- 1 a How many kinds of home can you think of? Make a list.
 b Look at the photos. Where do you think these homes can be found?
 c Read the article quickly and check your ideas.
- 2 Read the part of the article about tipis. Can you guess what the words in bold mean?
- 3 Read the Focus box. How can you guess the meaning of a new word?

Guessing unknown words

If there's a word that you don't understand, there are different ways to check the meaning.

Explanations

Does the text explain the word?

Native Americans used to live in tipis, which are a kind of tent.

The text explains that tipis are tents.

Reason/cause and effect

Linkers like so, because, as a result, that meant ... introduce a cause, reason or result that can help you work out the meaning.

They were nomadic, so they needed homes that were easy to move from place to place.

You can guess that nomadic means 'moving from place to place'.

Context

Can you guess the meaning from the words around it?

They used to hunt and kill wild animals for food.

Hunt is used together with kill and wild animals. From this we might guess that it means 'try to catch'.

Repetition

Is the same word repeated in the text, so you have another context to help you guess the meaning?

- 4 a Look at the words in bold in the first part of the article about tipis. Choose the correct definitions.
 - 1 roam: move around/stay in one place
 - 2 poles: long piece of wood/young people
 - 3 protect: keep someone or something safe/cool
 - 4 reservation: a kind of house/a place for Native Americans to live
- b Underline the other words in the article that helped you to guess the meaning of the words in Exercise 4a.
- 5 Use the methods in the Focus box to guess the meaning of the words in bold in the part of the article about tulou earth buildings.
- 6 What are traditional homes like in your country? Why are they like that?

Traditional homes are built in different ways around the world. Let's look at some examples of traditional homes from North America and China.

Tipis

Native Americans used to live in tipis, which are a kind of tent. They were nomadic so they needed homes that were easy to move from place to place. They used to hunt and kill wild animals for food and they roamed across the land following the animals. They used the skins of the animals to build their tipis. They attached the skins to tall wooden poles. That meant they could put the tipis up and take them down again quickly.

Tipis were cool in summer and warm in winter. The shape of the tipis protected them from the cold winter winds.

Today, most Native Americans live in cities and towns of the US. Others live in houses on reservations, areas of land specially reserved for them.

Tulou earth buildings

The tulou homes of Fujian in Southern China date back to the twelfth century. At that time, thieves used to attack homes and steal food. So the people who lived there needed to defend themselves. The tulou were built in a circle. They were up to four stories high, with very thick earth walls. Tulou means 'earth building'. There was usually only one entrance gate into the building. This design helped to protect the residents.

The tulou design had another purpose as well: communal living. Many families lived together in the same tulou building. Although each family had their own rooms, the residents of the tulou met outside every day. They also used to get together for weddings and ceremonies.

Today there are still about 3,000 tulou homes in Fujian, but many of them are empty. The residents are moving to the cities to find jobs and they are abandoning their homes. As a result, the buildings are falling down. One man, Lin Lusheng, is trying to save them. He believes it's important for any country to preserve its traditional buildings and culture.

Develop your listening

Goal: understand announcements

Focus: listening for specific information

1 a Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you ever been to a food festival?
 - 2 What kind of events and activities would you expect to find there?
 - 3 Are food festivals popular in your country?
- b Read the advertisement for a food festival and answer the questions.
- 1 Where is it?
 - 2 When is it on?
 - 3 What kind of things can you do there?
 - 4 Which activities and events look interesting to you?

THE BIG Food LOVERS' FESTIVAL
THE BEST FOOD FESTIVAL IN THE SOUTH OF ENGLAND!

The advertisement features a red background with white and yellow text. It highlights the festival as 'The Best Food Festival in the South of England'. Below the main title, there are sections for 'Watch live cooking demos', 'Try exotic food', 'Visit the cheese tent', 'Walk on the wild side', and 'Plus: live music, talks and presentations, kids' play area'. To the right, there's a green box for 'OPENING TIMES' showing dates and times for Saturday and Sunday. Below the text are two small images: one of a person playing a saxophone and another of a person at a cheese stall.

Watch live cooking demos

Watch famous TV master chefs cooking their favourite recipes in the Chef's Tent. Get signed copies of your favourite cookbooks!

Try exotic food

Explore dozens of food stalls in the Street Food Avenue and try food you've never tasted before.

Visit the cheese tent

Come and visit the cheese tent and watch a demonstration on how to make cheese, then try it yourself!

Walk on the wild side

Learn how to find safe and healthy wild food like mushrooms and herbs on the Wild Food Walk.

Plus:

- live music
- talks and presentations
- kids' play area

- 2 a Read the Focus box. When you listen for specific information, do you have to listen in detail to everything you hear? Why/Why not?

Listening for specific information

When you listen for specific information, you're often listening for facts, e.g. names, times, places, etc. For example:

- You listen to the weather report to get details about the weather in your area.
- You listen to an announcement to get details about time and place.

Before you listen, think about the kind of information that will answer your question(s). While you listen, focus only on the information which is important for you, and ignore anything that isn't important.

- b You have decided to go to the Food Lovers' Festival this weekend. You're going to listen to the weather forecast. What information do you need to listen for? Think about the following:

- the area of the country you are interested in
 - which days of the week you want to know about
- c 5.8 Listen to the weather forecast and decide which day(s) you want to go. What information helped you decide? What information was not relevant?

- 3 a You're at the festival and are listening for an announcement about the cookery event. Think about the information you'd like to know.

- b 5.9 Listen to three announcements. Which one is useful for you?

- c Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 Where is the cookery event happening?
- 2 What time does it start?
- 3 How long is the event?
- 4 What can you do afterwards?

- 4 a You are interested in going on the Wild Food Walk and the book signing with a famous chef. What information do you need to know about each event? Make notes.

- b 5.10 Listen to three more announcements. Which two are important for you?

- c Listen again and note down the information you need.

- 5 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Which events at the festival do you think will be the most popular?
- 2 Which ones would you like to go to?
- 3 What other events would you include if you were planning a food festival?

- Goal: understand a short talk
Focus: Identifying the stages of a talk

- 1 a You're going to hear a short talk about the use of appliances in 'smart' houses. Look at the picture and discuss the questions.
 - 1 What do you think a 'smart' house is? What do you think it can do?
 - 2 How many household appliances can you name? Make a list.
- b 6.3 Listen to the first part of the talk. What appliances are mentioned?
- 2 Read the Focus box. How do people make their talks easier to follow?

Identifying the stages of a talk

The purpose of a talk is usually to give the listener information and talks are usually organised into clear stages. There are some common phrases we use to help the listener follow a talk.

Beginning the talk

I'm going to be talking about technology in our homes.

I'm going to start by looking at technology in our homes.

Let's begin by looking at technology in our homes.

Changing between topics

And that's the next thing I want to talk about.

This brings me to my next point.

Another question is, how do we use technology?

Ending the talk

I'll end by answering my own question.

To sum up, technology is only as good as its user.

- 3 Complete the sentences with the correct words. Use the information in the Focus box to help you.

- 1 _____ end by asking you a question. Could you live without your phone?
- 2 Hi. So today I'm going _____ talking about how technology has changed the way we live.
- 3 Let's begin _____ talking about the mobile phone.
- 4 To _____, I think we have allowed technology to control us.
- 5 This _____ to my next point. Has technology really made things better?
- 6 _____ question is, is technology stealing our time?
- 7 And that's the next _____ I want to discuss. Is it too late to change things?
- 8 I'm _____ start by asking you to listen to the results of a recent survey.

- 4 a 6.4 Listen to the whole talk and tick the phrases in the Focus box that you hear.

- b Listen again. Number the topics in the order you hear them.
- a the reason these things are important
 - b what 'smart appliances' means
 - c the results of a survey

- 5 6.5 Listen to four extracts from different talks. Choose the stage of the talk for each extract.

- 1 a starting a talk b ending a talk
c in the middle of a talk.
- 2 a starting a talk b ending a talk
c in the middle of a talk.
- 3 a starting a talk b ending a talk
c in the middle of a talk.
- 4 a starting a talk b ending a talk
c in the middle of a talk.

- 6 6.4 Listen to the whole talk again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

- 1 Not many people have household appliances.
- 2 People think kitchen appliances are more important than other kinds of appliance.
- 3 People don't have a lot of time to spend on cooking and cleaning.
- 4 Some smart fridges can tell you how to cook food.
- 5 There is a touchscreen inside some smart fridges.
- 6 Most people want their fridges to do a lot of different things for them.

- 7 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Would you like to live in a 'smart' house?
- 2 Would it change your life? Why/Why not?
- 3 Do you think technology can be dangerous? Why/Why not?
- 4 What appliance for your home would you really love to have?

6B

Develop your reading

► Goal: understand a magazine article
 ► Focus: understanding linkers

- 1 a Discuss the questions. When you were at school, were you well-behaved? What things did you sometimes do wrong?
- b Read the article. What was the problem with the girl?

What is the right thing to do?

Making a choice about what is right and what is wrong is something we all have to do at some time or another. However, sometimes the results of the right choice and the wrong choice both seem bad. For example, if we see a friend, let's call him Brian, stealing, we know we should report him. That's the right thing to do. On the other hand, we like Brian. He's a nice person. If we report him, he may get into trouble and we don't want that to happen. What's more, Brian might never talk to us again! Choices like these are called 'moral dilemmas'. In a situation like this, most people will do nothing. However, sometimes people have to make a choice and it's not always easy.

Let's think about the case of one student, Lisa. Lisa is a young girl I know. When she was at school, she had a very strong sense of right and wrong, so if she saw one of the other students doing something bad, she would report them to the teachers. For example, if she saw someone looking at the answers in a maths test, she would tell the teacher. Or, if a classmate told a lie or took another student's books without asking, she would report them. Because of this, the other students didn't like her and no one wanted to be her friend. She was very unhappy, but she wouldn't change her behaviour because she was sure that she was right.

Let's consider the teachers' choices. Should they thank Lisa for reporting bad behaviour? If they did that, Lisa would continue to be unpopular and unhappy. Or should they try to convince Lisa to stop reporting the other children? If they did this, Lisa would be happier, but they wouldn't know when the children were breaking the rules. In other words, both solutions have bad results for someone!

- 2 Read the Focus box. Why are linkers important?

Understanding linkers

Writers use linkers (e.g. because, but, so etc.) to connect ideas in a text. They make it easier to understand what the writer wants to say. Linkers can be used to:

Show the order that things happen

First, he stole the painting.
After that, he sold it for a lot of money.
In the end, he built a school.

Give reasons for something

Because of her strange behaviour, she didn't have too many friends.

I didn't vote for him because I don't trust him.

Add more information

It was wrong, and what's more it was illegal.

Introduce different information

Telling lies is wrong. but sometimes it is the kind thing to do.

Telling lies is wrong. However/On the other hand, sometimes it is the kind thing to do.

Show the results of something

He woke up late so he had to run for the bus.

Explain in a different way

It is the right thing to do. In other words, it would be wrong not to do it.

- 3 Read the article again. Underline the linkers.

- 4 Put the sentences in the correct order to complete the story. Use the linkers in bold to help you.

a Lisa stayed the same and continued to be unhappy.

Then one day a new student started who also reported the other students to the teachers!

b she refused, because she felt she had to do what was right. Then

c the staff spoke to her parents and explained what was happening.

d the other students were getting angry with her. However,

e but they couldn't change her mind either. So, f First they spoke to her, and asked her not to report everything she saw because g Finally, Lisa understood how her classmates felt and stopped reporting them. In the end

h she became more popular with other students and was happier, too.

i The staff of the school tried lots of things to help Lisa. 1

- 5 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

1 What do you think of Lisa's behaviour? Was it 'wrong'?

2 Do you think the staff did the right thing trying to stop her?

Develop your writing

Goal: write a for and against essay

Focus: organising ideas

1 a Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you think zoos are a good thing? Why/Why not?
 - 2 What reasons can you think of for and against zoos?
- b Read the essay. Does the writer mention any of your ideas?

Should we keep animals in zoos?

1 Today we can watch animals on TV or the internet any time we want. So, do we still need zoos? Are they out of date and unnecessary, or do they still have an important role to play? There are different views on this subject.

2 Many people think that zoos are a good thing. They say that zoos help to educate the public about animals and that children can see animals they wouldn't usually have the chance to see and learn about. In addition, zoos give animals a safe place to live and plenty of food. If we didn't have zoos, many animals would not exist at all.

3 On the other hand, some people disagree. They believe we shouldn't put animals in cages for our entertainment and that people don't learn anything by looking at animals in zoos. In addition, they feel that many zoos don't look after the animals well and that animals in cages feel bored and stressed. As a result, some animals don't live long in zoos.

4 In conclusion, people have different opinions about zoos. However, we will continue to have zoos as long as people visit them, so governments must make sure that they are looked after well.

2 Read the Focus box. Where does the writer's opinion usually appear in a for and against essay? Why?

Organising ideas

In a for and against essay, you give reasons and information to support different opinions about a topic. You want to help the reader understand the issues and decide for themselves who or what is right or wrong.

Introduction: In your introduction, state the topic for discussion.

Middle paragraphs: In one paragraph, give reasons and information in support of the topic. In another paragraph, give reasons and information against the topic.

It's important not to support one opinion or the other in the two main paragraphs. Use phrases like this:

Some/Many people say/think...

Other people disagree/believe...

Conclusion: In your conclusion, you can repeat the main points and say what you personally think now.

3 a Read the essay again and answer the questions.

- 1 What topic is introduced in paragraph 1?
- 2 In paragraph 2, underline the main reasons that the writer gives in favour of zoos.
- 3 In paragraph 3, underline the main reasons that the writer gives against zoos.
- 4 What phrases does the writer use in paragraphs 2 and 3 to introduce other people's opinions?
- 5 What does the writer recommend in the conclusion in paragraph 4?

b Read the alternative conclusion. What does the writer recommend? Which conclusion do you agree with most?

In conclusion, people have different opinions about zoos. Personally, I would prefer to find different ways to protect animals. If people want to see wild animals, they can visit a safari park or a nature reserve. Alternatively, they can watch them in the wild.

Prepare

4 a You're going to write your own essay. Choose a question below or think of your own idea.

- Should people have animals as pets?
- Should we all become vegetarians?
- Should we stop using plastic bags?

b Think of ideas for and against the topic. Then make notes about what to write in the introduction, the for and against paragraphs and the conclusion.

- 1 a A local action group is organising a 'Save the environment' day and has produced a leaflet to advertise it. What sort of information would you expect to see in it?
b Read the leaflet. Does it include your ideas?

Save the environment day

Come and join us this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the West Parade for our 3rd annual 'Save the environment' day!

Who are we?

Are you tired of seeing our streets full of rubbish? We are too! We are a local group who are passionate about the environment. We want to make our town clean and beautiful again.

What's happening at the event?

We're organising a special event to help save our local environment. There will be fun activities for all the family. Enter the competition to pick up the most litter and win an amazing prize!

Bring your ideas

Come along, bring your family, friends and your ideas! How can we reduce waste? How can we recycle the things we don't need? We'll share our ideas as a group and there will be prizes for the best ones.

Contact us

Interested? For more information and to contact us go to our website and get involved today!

- 2 Read the Focus box. How can we make a leaflet more interesting?

Engaging a reader

When we create a leaflet, we should think of how we can make people interested in what we are telling them and encourage them to take action. There are a few ways we can do this:

Ask questions

Do you want to get fit?

Are you tired of expensive phone bills?

Use imperatives

Click on the link for your free seven-day trial.

Come and see our amazing range of models.

Use positive adjectives

It's a great opportunity to see an exciting new programme.

- 3 Read the leaflet in Exercise 1a again and underline the following:

- 1 the questions
- 2 the imperatives
- 3 the positive adjectives

- 4 Complete the leaflet below with the words and phrases in the box.

amazing lovely remember the day
Spend some time in the garden. Would you like a break?

Do nothing day!

Are you tired of always running around? 1_____

We have an 2_____ idea – on 5th March we are organising our very first 'Do Nothing Day'!

What do I need to do?

Nothing! We'd like you to have a 3_____ relaxing day at home with a book. Listen to some cool music. 4_____

A relaxed community is a happy community.

So, 5_____ , 5th March is 'Do Nothing Day'!

Prepare

- 5 a You're going to write a leaflet about something you're organising in your town (e.g. a music event, courses to help people). Work in pairs and think of different things you could organise.

- b Decide what you want to organise. Make notes about:

- why you want to do this
- if you are on your own or part of a group
- what kind of people you want to involve
- what events/activities there will be
- what you want people who read the leaflet to do
- how they can contact you

b Read the text and answer the questions.

- 1 How did the chance meeting happen?
- 2 What was the result of the chance meeting?

A chance meeting

Although we live in different parts of the world, my cousin Seb and I have always been close friends. Our mothers are sisters. They are both British, but his mother married an Australian and went to live in Melbourne, while my mother married an American and went to live in New York. Our families used to get together in England almost every summer.

My story starts eight years ago. At that time, Seb was still living in his home city of Melbourne and I was living and working in New York. Seb hadn't had a holiday for two years and so he decided to come and stay with me in New York. I started arranging things for him to do and thinking about the places we should visit. Around the same time, my old friend Ana from Barcelona contacted me and asked if she could come and stay with me – I was suddenly very popular! As my apartment was quite small for three people, I suggested that she should come on the day Seb left. I hadn't seen Ana for a few years, so I was excited about catching up with her.

When Seb arrived at the airport, I was waiting for him. I took him to all the places I really liked in my neighbourhood and to all the famous New York sights, too. We went to the Empire State Building on the first day and after that we walked in Central Park. We even went to the theatre on Broadway.

Seb left for the airport on his last day to catch his morning flight, and I picked up Ana in the afternoon. She was really excited and wanted to start sightseeing immediately! I took her to MOMA, the Museum of Modern Art, as I know she loves art. We were walking around when I saw a familiar face. I couldn't believe my eyes, it was Seb! His flight had been delayed until the evening and his phone had died, so he'd decided to spend a few hours doing some last-minute sight-seeing by himself and he'd come to MOMA. Ana and Seb had never met before, but they got on really well. After the holiday, they stayed in touch and Seb went to visit her in Barcelona. Two years later, Seb moved to Barcelona and, shortly after that, they got married. They've been married for six years now and just

- 2 Read the Focus box. How can we understand the order of events in a story?

Understanding the sequence of events

The tenses that a writer uses can help us understand the order of events in a story.

The past perfect emphasises which action came first and can often give us the background in a story.

Seb hadn't had a holiday for two years and he decided to come and stay with me in New York.

The past continuous shows an action that was not finished at a certain point in the past.

I was living and working in New York.

When we use the past continuous together with the past simple, the past simple action 'interrupts' the past continuous one.

When Seb arrived at the airport, I was waiting for him.

We can also understand the order of events by looking at words that describe time (e.g. eight years ago, two days later, etc.) and sequence (e.g. after that, in the end).

- 3 Find and underline examples of the following in the story.

- 1 the past perfect
- 2 the past continuous
- 3 time expressions

- 4 Find the two actions in each sentence. Write (1) next to the action that starts/happens first and (2) next to the action that starts/happens second.

- 1 I saw Juana while I was walking in the park.
- 2 Before she left the house, she'd checked that the windows were closed.
- 3 They met about six years ago and got married soon after.
- 4 After they'd finished work, they went to a local restaurant.
- 5 They went to bed early, as they'd had a long day.

- 5 Put the events in the story in the correct order. Use the language you underlined in Exercise 3 to help you.

- a Seb didn't have a holiday for a long time.
- b Seb's flight was delayed.
- c The writer took Seb to all the famous places in New York.
- d Ana and the writer visited MOMA.
- e The writer saw a familiar face.
- f Seb visited Barcelona to see Ana.
- g He decided to do some last-minute sight-seeing.
- h Seb moved to Barcelona.

- 6 Work in pairs and discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you or anyone you know ever had a chance meeting that was important?
- 2 How important do you think chance is in our lives?

Develop your listening

- ▶ Goal: understand a presentation
- ▶ Focus: listening for specific information

Want to do something different?

How about climbing Mount Fuji or going hiking in the Pyrenees? Maybe you could walk the Great Wall of China? Even better, what if you could do these things and raise money for a charity, too?

Sounds like you need a charity challenge!

- 1 a Look at the advert and discuss the questions.
 - 1 Where are the people in the photo? What are they doing?
 - 2 What are charity challenges? Why do people do them?
- 2 Read the Focus box. When you make notes, what should you do? Why?

Listening for specific information

When listening for key information in a talk or presentation, be clear what you are listening for. Before you listen, think about the information you want to know. You could prepare by writing down some questions.

Then listen carefully for the information you want and make notes to help you remember it. Just write key words. You don't have time to write down every word or full sentences.

- 3 a You're going to listen to a talk explaining what a charity challenge is and how to do it. What do you want to know? Write at least three questions.
- b 7.9 Listen and make notes. Do you have answers to your questions?
- c Work in pairs and compare your notes. Have you

- 4 a Read the advert for a charity challenge below and think of some questions to ask the organisers. Think about the following:
- the route you will take
 - things you will take with you
 - the total cost of the trip

 - start from _____, finish at _____ on the route
- 3 What support will we have during the trip?
 - will have _____ – fully trained, knows the _____
- 4 Do I need to do any training to prepare for the trip?
 - depends on how _____ I am now
 - prepare by doing short walks of _____
 - increase to _____ per day
- 5 What things will I need to take?
 - most important: good _____
 - _____ to keep dry and warm
 - small _____ to carry lunch and water bottle
- 6 How much money do I need to raise?
 - £_____
- 7 What's included in the cost?

 Focus: adding and contrasting ideas

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 What are the advantages of living alone/with other people?
- 2 Which do you prefer? Why?

2 Read the email. What is Sophie trying to decide?

Hey Lisa,

How's it going? I'm really well. I'm enjoying the new job and everyone at work seems friendly and helpful. Plus, I'm getting the yearly bonus, even though I just joined!

I wanted to get your advice on something. I'm still living at home with my parents and I just can't decide if I should move out. I mean, my mum and dad are great and they like having me here, too. I also don't have to worry about money, which is a big thing.

However, I think moving out might be a good idea. A lot of my friends are already renting their own places and they seem to be having an amazing time. They've got much more freedom than I have – they can invite people over whenever they want, for example. I've started thinking I should do the same instead of living at home with my parents. Maybe I'm a bit old for living at home?

So what should I do? On the one hand, if I move out, I'll feel more like an 'adult' but I'll have lots of new problems to deal with. On the other hand, if I stay at home, I'll have an easy life, but I'll continue to feel like a little kid!

What do you think?

Sophie

3 Read the Focus box. Which of the ways of adding and contrasting ideas do you use when you're writing?

Adding and contrasting ideas

There are many useful words and phrases you can use when you're adding or contrasting ideas in a piece of writing.

Adding ideas

If you stay here, you can live with your parents and be near your friends.

As well as being near family and friends, you can find a job more easily.

There are activities during the day. You can also do a lot of different things in the evenings.

There are lots of opportunities to play a sport and to meet people, too.

It's nice living at home. Plus, it's cheap!

Contrasting ideas

There are a lot of sports clubs you can join, but you need to have time to practise.

I like living at home. However, I'd like to have more freedom.

I like the new place, even though it's expensive.

4 a Find and underline four different ways of adding ideas in the email in Exercise 2.

b Find and underline three different ways of contrasting ideas in the email.

5 Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 I'm working a lot but I'm plus/also having a lot of fun.
- 2 It was nice for a short time. However/Even though, I'm happy that I don't live there now.
- 3 As well as/Also getting a free meal, we got free drinks after dinner.
- 4 It was expensive and really bad quality, as well as/too.
- 5 Even though/However I was tired, I had a good time.
- 6 The weather was bad, but/on the other hand we had a good time.
- 7 It's a nice gym. Plus/Too, they have a jacuzzi.
- 8 On the one hand, the film looked amazing. But/On the other hand, the actors were poor.

Prepare

6 a You're planning to make one of the major life decisions below. Decide what you're going to do and make a list of the advantages and disadvantages.

- moving to another country or staying where you are
- getting a new job or staying in your present job
- staying in your job or taking a career break

b Organise your ideas. Think about the words and phrases you can use to add to and contrast your ideas.

- ▶ Goal: understand a radio phone-in programme
- ▶ Focus: guessing the meaning of unknown words

1 Discuss the questions.

- 1 What sports are popular in your country?
- 2 What sports do you enjoy watching/playing?
- 3 Do you enjoy watching the Olympics? Why/Why not?

2 Read the Focus box. What methods can you use to help you guess the meaning of an unknown word while listening?

Guessing the meaning of unknown words

You don't need to understand every word when you are listening, but sometimes we can make a guess about the meaning of words we don't know. Look at the words below in bold which might be new for you.

Guessing from general context

The Olympics is a great way to unite people from all over the world.

We know that 'unite' is connected to 'The Olympics' and 'people from all over the world'. From the context, we might guess that 'unite' means 'bring people together'.

Repetition of a word

You have to be an amazing athlete to win a medal at the Olympics.

Medals are given to the winner, second and third-placed athletes.

From the two examples, we know that a 'medal' is something you can win, that you need to be good at your sport to do it and we know that they are given to the first three athletes in an Olympic event. This can help us guess the meaning of the word.

Examples

I like ball games like football, rugby and basketball.

The examples help us guess what 'ball games' are.

Explanations

I'd like to try a marathon, which is a sport where you run a really long distance.

The word 'marathon' is explained for us by the person speaking.

3 8.6 Listen to the first part of a radio phone-in programme. What is it about?

- a How to become a top athlete.
- b How to get people interested in sport.

4 a Listen again for the words and phrases in the box. Can you guess what they mean?

b Choose the correct definition for each word.*1 To inspire means ...

- a to make someone excited about something and want to do it.

- b to force someone to do something they are not interested in.

2 Facilities are ...

- a teachers and coaches.

- b football pitches, tennis courts and gyms.

3 Funding is ...

- a money given by a government or organisation for an activity.

- b advice about the best way to do something.

c Work in pairs. What helped you choose the correct definition?5 a 8.7 Listen to the second part of the programme. What's the best summary?

- a We need to help young people find the sport that they enjoy.

- b We need to find the best young people to become top athletes in the future.

b Listen again and guess the meaning of the words in the box.

competitive (sport) have a talent (for something)

c Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 What does Peter Jones say schools need to do?
- 2 What does he say is the benefit of this?
- 3 Does Susan Biggs agree with Peter Jones?
- 4 What kind of activities does she suggest schools should offer? Why?

6 Discuss the questions.1 What do you think about this opinion?

'Nowadays we have better sports facilities, but also better internet, better phones and better video games. It's hard to get young people interested in sport.'

- 2 What do you think is the best way to encourage young people to do more physical activity?

 - Would you like to visit any of the places in the photos? Which ones?
- Read the first paragraph of the brochure. What type of trip is it describing?
- Read the Focus box. How do writers avoid repeating the same words?

Understanding reference

When writers want to avoid repeating the same words and phrases in a text, they use words such as pronouns and adverbs to refer to the word or phrase.

Pronouns: he, she, it, they

Demonstratives: this, that, these, those

Adverbs: here, there

Wh-words: what, which, where

These words can be used to refer to something that comes before them.

The mountains are so high, they seem to touch the sky.

They refers to the word mountains.

You can visit one of the mountains which is near the village.

Which refers to one of the mountains.

They can also be used to refer to something that comes after them.

Here in Jamaica, you will receive a warm welcome.

Here refers to the word Jamaica that follows it.

- Complete the sentences with the words in the box.

- I liked Denmark and Bob liked _____, too.
 - I love this area, I'm very happy _____.
 - Are Brian and Sophia OK? _____ look annoyed.
 - _____ is the last time that I'm going to help you with money.
 - Everyone always laughs at Mike, but _____ doesn't care.
 - I like the guys _____ were at the table next to us.
- 5 Look at the words in bold in the first two paragraphs of the brochure. What do they refer to?
- 6 Look at the last two paragraphs of the brochure and underline words that are used to refer to other words. Which words do they refer to?
- 7 Work in pairs and discuss. Which of the places in the brochure would you like to visit? Why?

Looking for holiday ideas? Well, why not take a look at some of the amazing trips we offer to the world's most wonderful valleys. People don't often think of valleys when they think about their holidays, but they are often some of the most beautiful places on Earth. Some are deep, others have amazing waterfalls and so many of them are worth visiting!

The Grand Canyon, USA

It is probably the most well-known valley of all, but the Grand Canyon in the US will still surprise you with its size and great beauty. It's best viewed from the air, so you will fly along the Colorado River before hiking and camping in the national park, where you can see all kinds of wonderful wildlife.

The Verdon Gorge, France

This is often called the most beautiful valley in Europe. It is a deep river valley whose beautiful green water attracts water sports fans for activities such as sailing and water skiing. These aren't the only things you can do there. Its high walls also make it popular with people who like climbing. If you love adventure, you'll love it here.

The Antelope Canyons, USA

Here in the Antelope Canyon in Arizona, you will find a photographer's paradise. They come here for the amazing rock formations and the marvellous colours, which consist of brilliant oranges and purples. The canyon is actually two deep valleys, which have very narrow walls. People walking through them can touch both sides at the same time if they want to!

Develop your reading

- Goal: understand a short article
- Focus: recognising degrees of certainty

- 1 Read the comments. Which do you agree/disagree with? Why?

Shopping is a huge waste of time.

I only buy what I need when I need it.

Shopping makes me feel good when I'm feeling down.

- 2 a You're going to read a short article. Look at the title. What do you think the article will be about?
b Read the article quickly and check your ideas.

Is shopping going out of fashion?

I've never understood it, but it's certainly true that a lot of people spend their free time giving money to stores. You'll probably find your local shopping centre full of people every weekend, families arguing with each other, teenagers hanging out with their friends and bored couples killing time. Almost everyone's there! It's also a fact that shopping helps our economy – when people stop spending, that's when we know there's trouble coming.

However, it looks like shopping may be becoming less popular than it was, certainly with young adults. Talking to lots of my friends these days, they tell me that they definitely shop less than their parents' generation. When I asked them why, I got a few different answers. Some said that they just don't have the money and need it for other things. Others said that it was probably because it felt like a waste – it's clear that we have more things than we need already, so why get more? One friend said that it was because he felt like he was always being pushed to buy new things by advertising on TV and social media and that he just didn't like that feeling. A few of these friends also expressed another idea – they felt that their generation is less interested in 'stuff' than the previous one and more interested in experiences.

I don't think shopping is going to disappear from our lives any time soon, but I hope that people are beginning to spend more time doing other things. My parents recently started going hiking at the weekends rather than going to the shops in town, so maybe there's hope!

- 3 Read the Focus box. What does using the word possible indicate?

Recognising degrees of certainty

Writers use various words and phrases to show how certain or uncertain they are about something they say.

To show they feel completely sure about something.

It is a fact that online shopping is very popular.

It is (certainly) true that online shopping is growing.

It's clear that online shopping is good for business.

To show they feel almost sure about something.

It is probably busy in the shopping centre today.

It is likely/unlikely to be busy in the shops today.

It looks like spending on food will go up.

To show they are not completely certain about something.

It is possible that our spending on gadgets will go down.

Maybe we will stop buying new things.

- 4 Read the article again and underline the words and phrases that show the writer is:

- 1 completely sure about the information.
- 2 almost sure the information is true.
- 3 not very sure the information is true.

- 5 Are the sentences true (T) or false (F) according to the article? Correct the false sentences.

The writer ...

- 1 is sure most people spend a lot of time shopping.
- 2 is sure a lot of people go the shops at the weekend.
- 3 is almost sure that shopping is good for business.
- 4 isn't very sure that younger people do less shopping.

The mouse, the bird and the chilli

A mouse, a bird, and a chilli, three great friends, lived together in the same house. For a long time, they lived happily together in this house, each one using their own special skills. The bird, who was as quick as an arrow, flew every day to the forest to bring back wood. The mouse was the organised one, and he got the water, made the fire and got the table ready for dinner. The chilli did the cooking. He jumped in the pot and swam around like a strange sea animal, until the water was nice and spicy. It was a great life for the three friends. They never wanted their lovely life to change.

Then one day, the bird met another bird in the forest and told this second bird about his life and how he flew to the forest every day to get wood for the fire, while his friends did their jobs at home. This other bird, a crow with a bad personality, told the bird that he was doing too much work and that the mouse and the chilli had an easier life than the bird did.

The next day, because of the crow's words, the bird refused to go to the forest. He said that he was tired of working like a machine. The bird then said that they should all change roles. The chilli would get the wood, the mouse would become the cook and the bird would carry the water and set the table. The mouse and the chilli were not happy, but in the end, they agreed.

And what was the result, do you think?

Well, the chilli went out to the forest to get wood but on the way, he met a hungry dog, who ate him.

The mouse tried to copy the chilli and swam in the hot water. He soon realised it was too hot and he jumped out and ran away.

Now his friends were gone, the bird had to do everything. He had to fly and get wood, collect water, cook the food, set the table ... He got so confused by everything he needed to do that he didn't notice that some of the wood from the fire had fallen onto the floor and the house was starting to burn. The house burned down and the bird was left with no home and no friends. If he'd 1 a Read the story. What mistake did the friends make?

b Complete the sentences to describe the story.

- 1 If the three friends hadn't decided to ...
- 2 If the crow hadn't ...

2 a Which of the friends did the writer compare to a sea creature/an arrow/a machine?

b Read the Focus box. Can you think of any other ways to make a comparison in English?

Making comparisons

We can use comparisons to make a piece of writing more interesting. There are different ways to do this.

We can use as ... as to say that one thing is similar to something else, often using an adjective.

She was as pale as a ghost.

We can also use like to say that two things are similar.

He cried like a baby.

If we want to focus on appearance, we can use look like.

We can use it with a noun or a clause.

The clouds looked like an ice cream dessert.

He looked like he was angry.

3 Choose the correct alternatives.

- 1 He looked like/as an angry bull.
- 2 She was as quiet like/as a mouse.
- 3 They looked like tired/they were tired.
- 4 She ran like/as the wind.
- 5 The sky was as/like a swimming pool.

4 Complete the sentences with your own ideas.

- 1 The moon looked like a ...
- 2 She was so angry, she looked like she wanted to ...
- 3 The forest was as dark as ...
- 4 The man was always so calm, he was like a ...
- 5 The bear was as big as ...

Prepare

5 a You're going to write your own story. First, think about the questions below to help you with your ideas.

- Who were the people?
- Where were they?
- What happened?
- What were the consequences?

They were a successful couple called June and Hugo.

They were in New York.

They got married. Then they both met someone they preferred on their honeymoon.

They got married again, but to different people.

b Think of comparisons to make your story more interesting.

New York in winter looked like a Christmas cake.

I am writing to ask for information about...

I am writing to find out more about...

I am writing to enquire about...

Asking detailed questions and make requests.

I would also like to know...

Could you also let me know if/what/when...?

Develop your reading

Goal: understand an article

Focus: making inferences

- 1 a What are the good and bad effects of tourism?
- b Read the article. Are any of your ideas mentioned?
- 2 Read the Focus box. How can you find out the writer's opinion if it is not stated directly in the article?

Making inferences

Sometimes it's very clear what a writer wants to say, but sometimes we have to make guesses from the information that we are given - we need to 'infer' what they mean.

Read the extract:

People have more paid holidays. Travel has become cheaper. Many countries have built airports, roads and hotels so it is easier to find holiday accommodation.

From this information we can infer that tourism has increased because all the things that are mentioned would make it easier for people to go on holiday.

Read the comment:

'Where I live, we have about eight million tourists a year. Without them, we wouldn't have any jobs.'

From this we can infer that the person feels positive about tourism in their city. People having jobs is a good thing, so tourism must be a good thing.

- 3 a Read the extract. What can you infer about the effect of tourism from the information given?

In many places, tourism has replaced traditional jobs like farming or fishing. As a result, local people now depend on money from tourism for their living. Sometimes the number of tourists falls, for example, because of floods or fire.

- b Read the comment. How does the person feel about tourists?

It used to be wonderful. We used to have lots of workers with traditional skills in the city. Now, around 2,000 people leave each year. Soon there will be more tourists than residents.

- 4 Read the article again. Is this information stated (S) or not stated but can be inferred (NS)?

- 1 Mass tourism can be bad for the environment.
- 2 Many residents in Barcelona and Venice are angry because of the number of tourists.
- 3 Many tourists behave well.
- 4 The Peruvian government is worried about the negative effects of tourism on Machu Picchu.
- 5 Peru controls the number of tourists visiting Machu Picchu.
- 6 The writer is optimistic that tourism can continue without too many negative effects.

- 5 Discuss the questions.

Tourism has become a huge industry. Tourists make millions of foreign trips a year, twice as many as 20 years ago. It's now the largest employer on Earth. Clearly, it can do great good, but it can also do great damage.

It is true that tourism has brought benefits to many areas of the world that were very poor. However, mass tourism also has negative effects. Local culture and customs change as more tourists arrive. Too much tourism damages the environment. And more and more tourists are behaving badly.

Complaints from local people are growing. In cities such as Barcelona or Venice, residents say that too many tourists arrive on cruise ships. As a result, town centres are overcrowded. They tell stories about noisy parties that keep people awake all night. In famous beauty spots, where tourist money was welcomed, people are now concerned about the damage tourists do to the environment.

Of course, many tourists enjoy the benefits of tourism in a responsible way. They choose holidays that support the local economy and they respect the local culture and the environment. Environmentally friendly tourism, or eco-tourism, is becoming more popular.

Responsible tourist behaviour is necessary, but it isn't enough to solve the problem. Many people now believe that governments should control how many visitors enter their country. They believe they should limit the number of cruise ships that use their ports and should not allow too many hotel developments.

Unfortunately, governments are in a difficult situation. Tourism brings in a lot of money and this helps them improve life for the local people. However, some governments are beginning to understand that too much tourism can be bad for the local population and the environment. For example, Peru has recently limited the number of tourists who can visit the ancient city of Machu Picchu, and countries such as Bhutan, Costa Rica and Kenya now promote environmentally friendly tourism. There may still be hope.

- 5 Discuss the questions.

- 1 Does tourism affect your country/the place where you live? In what ways?
2 How do people feel about it?

10c

Develop your listening

- Goal: understand short conversations
► Focus: understanding meaning from context

C

1 a Look at the pictures and discuss the questions.

- 1 What is happening?
- 2 How does each person feel?
- 3 Why are the people saying 'It's five o'clock'?

b 10.7 Listen to the conversation and answer the questions.

- 1 What is the relationship between the people?
- 2 Where are they?

- 2 Read the Focus box. What things can we focus on to help us guess someone's real meaning?

Understanding meaning from context

The words people use may have different meanings according to the context they are used in. To understand what someone wants to communicate, you can think about:

The situation

Who are the people involved, how do they know each other and why are they talking?

For example a boss says to her employee:
Would you mind writing the report by tomorrow?

The boss means:

I want you to write the report today.

Other things they say

Listening to what people say before and after a specific sentence can help us make guesses about what they mean.

A: Let's go out.

B: It's so hot!

A: Oh, come on!

It's so hot! may have lots of meanings, but if we look at what A says, we can guess that B means I don't want to go out!

How they say things

What tone of voice do they use? Do they sound angry, happy or disappointed?

- 3 a 10.8 Listen to the conversation. What does one of the people mean when they say 'He's usually early? Choose the correct option.

- I'm surprised and worried that he's not here.
- I'm really angry that he's late.
- I'm not surprised that he's not here.

b What helped you guess the correct answer?

- 4 a 10.9 Listen to two people talking and answer the questions.

- 1 What is the relationship between the people?
- 2 What is the situation?

b Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why does Lauren say 'What about it??'
- 2 Why does Lauren's mother say 'I know other students who are doing that?'
- 3 Why does Lauren say 'You must be so disappointed?'
- 4 Why does Lauren say 'I need to go out?'

5 Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you ever been/Were you ever in Lauren's situation at school?
- 2 If so, what did your parents say?

GRAMMAR

1A Present simple and present continuous present simple

Use the present simple to talk about something we see as permanent and not changing. This could be:

- facts and general truths.
- permanent situations.
- habits and routines.

The journey takes 30 minutes.

Does Sam speak Spanish?

I walk to school every day.

When using the present simple to talk about habits and routines, a frequency expression is often used, e.g. usually, sometimes, often, every day, once a month.

I usually cycle to school.

I watch TV every evening.

present continuous

Form the present continuous with am/are/is + verb + ing.

Use the present continuous to talk about something in progress now or around now. The present continuous is also used to talk about something temporary.

Is it raining?

I'm reading a great book at the moment.

I'm working in Bristol this week.

state verbs

State verbs express things such as likes, desires, attitude and feelings (e.g. like, love, hate, need, want, agree, believe, feel, know), appearance and characteristics (e.g. look (like), appear, smell, sound, weigh, contain, consist of) and possession (belong (to), have (got), own). We generally use state verbs in the simple form.

I need some help.

Do you like rock music?

This café looks nice.

I don't have any money.

1B be going to and present continuous be going to Use be going to to talk about plans and intentions that were made before the time of speaking.

I'm going to look for a new job.

We're going to meet sometime soon.

What are you going to say to her?

Note that when we use be going to go, we usually omit to go.

I'm going to go to bed.

present continuous

The present continuous is used for something that is arranged, agreed or finalised. In other words, it is more than just a plan or intention. For example, it is often used when we have an arrangement with another person. When the present continuous is used in this way, it is often with a time phrase, e.g. this evening, in December, next year.

They're getting married in December.

We're meeting at 7.30.

Are you doing anything this weekend?

Note that be going to or the present continuous can sometimes both be used with little or no difference in meaning and use.

I'm going to stay at home this evening, or

I'm staying at home this evening.

1C will for prediction

Use will or 'll with a verb to add a future meaning.

I'll see you later.

I will come to the party.

In spoken English, 'll is more commonly used than will.

Use will not or won't to express a negative.

We won't have a party like this again.

We will not see him today.

Form a question by changing the position of the subject and will.

Will John be there tonight?

Note that in speaking, the contracted form 'll is usually used.

Use will to predict things about the future. It is often used with verbs such as think, believe, expect and hope or with phrases such as I'm (not) sure or I'm (not) certain. Will can also be used with adverbs of (un)certainty such as probably, possibly and definitely.

We'll have regular flights to Mars in 50 years' time.

I'll definitely be a millionaire by the time I'm 30!

In the future, I think we'll spend more and more of our time online.

I don't think we'll arrive before six.

I'm sure she'll pass the exam.

When will is used in this way, it is often with a time phrase, e.g. in the future, in ten years' time, by 2050.

GRAMMAR

2A Past simple and past continuous

past simple

Use the past simple to talk about completed past actions and events.

I played football yesterday.

For most verbs, add -ed to the infinitive (e.g. worked, watched, played) to form the past simple. Some verbs have an irregular past simple form (e.g. went, saw, knew).

I met some nice guys at the party.

To form the negative, use didn't + infinitive and to form questions, use did + subject + infinitive.

Did you see Jenny last night?

I didn't have any lunch today.

For the verb be, the past simple is was or were. To form the negative, add -n't and to form a question, put was or were before the subject.

We were all quite tired last night.

He was there when I called.

We weren't very happy with her.

past continuous

To form the past continuous, use was/were + -ing form.

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------------------------|
| + He was working | We were living in Rome in 2017. |
| - He wasn't working | We weren't living in Rome in 2017. |
| ? Was he working? | Were you living in Rome in 2017? |

Use the past continuous to talk about an action or situation in progress at or around a time in the past. We often use the past continuous to give the background to a story.

It wasn't raining when we left.

How long were you waiting for the bus?

The past continuous is often used with the past simple when one action interrupts another. Use when and while to link the actions. While is usually used with longer actions (e.g. with the past continuous) and when for shorter action (e.g. with the past simple).

I saw Dasha while I was driving to work.

We were living in Rome when we met.

2B used to Use used to + infinitive. Note that there is no final -d in negatives and questions.

I used to play the guitar.

When I was a child, we used to go skiing every year.

I didn't use to play the guitar.

We didn't use to go skiing every year.

Did you use to play the guitar?

How often did you use to go skiing when you were younger?

Use used to to talk about actions, such as habits and routines, that happened regularly in the past, but don't happen now. Don't use used to for single events or actions in the past.

We used to visit my grandparents every weekend, but now we live too far away.

Also use used to to talk about past states and permanent situations.

I used to love watching cartoons when I was a kid.

Use never used to as a negative form.

I never used to play computer games much.

Note that used to and the past simple can have similar meaning, but used to emphasises that the situation no longer exists.

2C so/such ... that; too ... to; not enough ... to

so/such ... that

Use so and such to give emphasis to something. Use so before an adjective and such before an adjective + noun. We can also use such + noun. Note that the article a goes after such.

I was so tired!

It was such a lovely day.

It was such a waste of time!

Also use so much / many + noun.

There were so many people.

We spent so much money!

Use so ... that and such ... that to link a situation with its consequence or result. Note that using that is optional.

I was so tired that I went to bed at 8 o'clock.

too/(not) enough ... to Use too to say something is more than we want or need. Use too + adjective or too much/many + noun.

The pizza is too hot.

There was too much noise.

Use (not) enough ... to say we have or don't have as much as we want or need. Use adjective + enough and enough + noun.

This coat isn't warm enough.

Do we have enough time?

Use an infinitive clause (to ...) to explain why there is more than we want or need or that we have or don't have as much as we want or need.

There's not enough pasta to make lunch.

PRACTICE

2A

- 1 Complete the sentences with the pairs of verbs in the box. Use one in the past simple and the other in the past continuous.

not answer/drive meet/do you queue/get

- 2 I _____ the dog when it _____ snowing.
- 3 We first _____ at university. We _____ the same degree.
- 4 Sorry I _____ the phone earlier. I _____.
- 5 It _____ this morning, so we _____ for a walk.
- 6 How long _____ before you _____ into the exhibition?

- 2 Complete the stories with the correct form of the verb in brackets.

While she ¹ _____ (celebrate) her grandparents' golden wedding in Stafford, UK, ten-year-old Laura Buxton ² _____ (release) a balloon with a note attached. The note asked the person who found the balloon to write back. Ten days later she ³ _____ (receive) a reply. The girl, who ⁴ _____ (find) the balloon while she ⁵ _____ (play) in her garden 140 miles away, was also called Laura Buxton and was ten years old.

A couple ⁶ _____ (have) an argument in a restaurant when the woman ⁷ _____ (throw) a drink over the man. A few seconds later she ⁸ _____ (slip) on the drink and ⁹ _____ (hurt) her back. She later ¹⁰ _____ (receive) over $100,000 in compensation because the restaurant ¹¹ _____ (not / clean up) the liquid quickly enough. The manager said that the staff ¹² _____ (try) to stop the argument at the time.

2B

- 1 Rewrite the sentences with the correct form of used to so that they mean the same.

- 1 I played the guitar when I was younger, but I don't play it now.
- 2 We went skiing every year, but we hardly ever go these days.
- 3 Did you play computer games when you were younger?
- 4 I didn't like Chinese food in the past, but I love it now.
- 5 There was a park here but now it's an office block.

- 2 Make sentences about the past using the prompts and used to. Then write three similar sentences of your own.

- 1 there / be / more languages in the world.
- 2 people / think / the world / flat.
- 3 people / not / live so long.
- 4 we / not / buy / so many things online.
- 5 there / not / be so much pollution.
- 6 life / be / much simpler.

2C

- 1 Choose the correct alternative.

- 1 I was too/so tired to go out last night.
- 2 It's not warm too/enough to swim.
- 3 We don't have enough/money to/for buy both of them.
- 4 We were so/too cold that we put the heating on.
- 5 It was so/such a lovely place that we decided to go back there next year.
- 6 Your parents are such/so nice!
- 7 There were so many people that/to we couldn't all sit down.
- 8 I wanted to go, but I didn't have money enough/enough money.

- 2 Rewrite the sentences using the word in brackets so that they mean the same.

- 1 I'm too young to vote. (enough)
I'm _____ vote.
- 2 It was such a boring film that I fell asleep. (so)
The film _____ asleep.
- 3 The room isn't big enough to fit everyone. (too)
The room _____ everyone.
- 4 The food was so cold that we couldn't eat it. (too)
The _____ eat.
- 5 The traffic was so bad that it took us five hours to get there. (such)
It _____ to get there.
- 6 It was too dark to see anything. (so)
It _____ see anything.

GRAMMAR

3A Present perfect and past simple present perfect

+	I	've	been	to India.
-	She	hasn't	finished	the report.
?	Have	you	seen	that film?

Use the present perfect to connect the past and the present. This could be:

- to talk about actions or events in the recent past that have a result in or an impact on the present. Use just to emphasise that the action or event is very recent. Already, yet and still can also be used with the present perfect.

I've lost my passport.

Jake's just bought a new phone.

We've already eaten.

Have you finished your homework yet?

- to talk about experiences in our lives up to now. This is often with time expressions such as never, twice, several times, a few times, etc. or with the question Have you ever ...?

Jenny's been to the US.

I've never been skiing.

- or situations that started in the past and continue to the present. To do this, use since or for. Note that since + a point in time (e.g. since 2016, since last May, since my birthday, since I left university) and for + a period of time (e.g. five years, a few weeks, ages).

He's been vegetarian since he was about twelve.

I haven't been to the UK since 2015.

past simple

Use the past simple to talk about completed past actions and events. Whereas the present perfect connects the past and the present, the past simple tells us only about the past.

We saw a very good film last night.

3B Present perfect continuous and present perfect simple present perfect continuous

Use have/has + been + verb+ing to form the present perfect continuous. Use the contracted form of have ('s/'ve) in more informal contexts, especially in speaking.

I've been going to the gym a lot these days.

To form the negative, use haven't/hasn't + been + -ing and to form questions, put have/has before the subject.

I haven't been studying a lot.

Have you been waiting long?

Use the present perfect continuous for actions that are ongoing or only just finished. It is often used to focus on the length of time of an action.

I've been having driving lessons for two months.

We've been going out a lot recently.

How long have you been living here?

present perfect simple

Use the present perfect simple to focus on the present result of a completed action. See 3A for more detailed information.

We've finished all our work.

3C Articles

a/an (indefinite article)

Use a before a consonant sound (e.g. a car, a tree, a euro) and use an before a vowel sound (e.g. an apple, an idea, an umbrella). Use a/an to talk about one example of something, often when it is mentioned for the first time.

I've got a new phone.

We're going to see a film.

a/an can be used in a number of other ways. These include job titles and illnesses, e.g. a cold, a teacher.

the (definite article)

Use the to talk about something that both the speaker and listener knows. This could be because the thing has already been mentioned or is obvious from the situation or there is only one of something.

What time is the lecture?

The Earth goes round the Sun.

the can be used in a number of other ways. These

- mountain ranges, rivers, canals, seas, oceans, deserts, e.g. the Alps, the Thames, the Gobi.
- hotels, theatres, museums, e.g. the Hilton, the British Library.
- peoples, e.g. the Chinese, the French.

No article (zero article)

Don't use an article when you're talking about something in a general sense:

We have lectures every day.

I love visiting museums.

Sugar is bad for you.

We also don't need an article when we talk about these things:

- countries (without a plural element), continents, cities, e.g. Belarus or Russia.
- mountains, lakes, e.g. Everest, Lake Geneva.

3A

- 1 Look at the list of eight actions. For each one, write a sentence saying if you have or haven't done it.

- 2 A: Sorry I'm late.
B: Hey, no problem. We haven't waited/haven't been waiting long.
- 3 A: How's it going?
B: Busy. I've studied/been studying a lot. I've got exams all next week. In fact, I've had/'ve been having one already.
- 4 A: Hi Silvia. I haven't seen/haven't been seeing you for ages. What have you done/have you been doing?
B: I've just got/'ve just been getting a new job actually.

- 2 Find three mistakes in 1–6 and correct them.

It's been a while since my last blog. This is basically because ¹I've been travelling for the last few weeks, mainly speaking at conferences. ²I've been giving six workshops so far. ³I've already been going to Italy, Poland, Peru and Cyprus. ⁴I've met lots of wonderful people. ⁵I've also learned a lot both professionally and personally. While in the different countries, ⁶I've been visiting such wonderful places as Machu Picchu in Peru, and the cities of Krakow in Poland and Nicosia in Cyprus.

3C

- Correct the mistakes in each conversation There are two mistakes in each conversation.

- 1 A: Have you got car?
B: Yes, I've got the old sports car, actually.
- 2 A: Is there the ATM near here?
B: Yes, there's one next to a supermarket over there. Can you see it?
- 3 A: Do you listen to the music when you work?
B: No, I usually prefer to work in the silence.
- 4 A: Is there much to see and do in your town?
B: Yes, there's museum and an art gallery. Gallery has a great exhibition at the moment.
- 5 A: Where I live, the cars are banned in the city centre. Only bus and taxis can drive there.
B: That's good. I think cars should be banned in all cities.

- 2 Complete the email with a/an, the or no article (-).

Hi Dina,
We've been here in ¹_____ US for two weeks now and we're having ²_____ great time. We're in ³_____ New York at the moment and we've been visiting the famous New York sights such as ⁴_____ Empire State Building, ⁵_____ Central Park and ⁶_____ Museum of Modern Art. Yesterday, we had afternoon tea at ⁷_____ Plaza Hotel and tomorrow we're going to take ⁸_____ boat trip on ⁹_____ Hudson River and to ¹⁰_____ Statue of Liberty. 4B Superlatives type of adjective	example	superlative	example

short adjectives (one-syllable and some two-syllable adjectives)	small quiet	add -est	smallest quietest short adjectives ending in -e	nice	add -st	nicest short adjectives ending in -y	busy	delete -y and add -iest	busiest short adjectives ending in one consonant, one vowel and one consonant	big	double the final consonant and add -est	biggest long adjectives (most two syllable adjectives and all with three or more syllables)	interesting popular	use most/least + adjective	the most interesting the least popular irregular adjectives	good bad far	no rules	best worst furthest

Use 'most' to make most adverbs superlative:

She eats the most healthily.

4C Defining relative clauses

Use a defining relative clause to give information about something. This is to identify, classify or to define the thing. A defining relative clause begins with a relative pronoun or relative adverb: who, whom, which, that, whose, where, when.

Use who or that for people. However, using that for a person can sometimes seem a little informal and impersonal.

The film is about a child who loses his memory.

Use which or that for things.

This is the book that I was telling you about.

Use when for a time and where for a place.

Christmas is a time when families get together.
Is this the hotel where we stayed last year?

Note that the relative pronouns who, which and that can be omitted when they describe the object of the sentence. In other words, the relative pronoun can be omitted when it comes before a noun or a pronoun.

This is the book that I was telling you about.

Are they the people who we met last weekend?

The relative pronoun cannot be omitted when it

A camel is an animal which lives in the desert.
Use whose to show possession or relationship.
There's the man whose keys we found.

comes directly before a verb.
Are they your friends who live in Scotland?

GRAMMAR

5A Modal verbs: possibility and deduction

A modal verb always has the same form and we don't change the ending after he, she or it in the present, or to form the past tense. After a modal verb, use the infinitive. To form a negative, use a modal verb + not/n't. To form a question, put the modal verb before the subject.

possibility

Use may (not), might (not) and could to talk about what is possible or likely in the present or future.

This could be Roberto's house.

It might rain tomorrow.

We may not arrive on time.

deduction

Use must to make a deduction and to say we are sure something is true.

You haven't eaten all day.

You must be hungry.

The opposite of must is can't. Use can't to make a deduction and to say we are sure something isn't true.

You've just had lunch. You can't be hungry.

5B Zero and first conditional zero conditional

Use the zero conditional for things that are always true or when one thing is the result of another. The zero conditional is if/when + present tense + present tense.

When the power is low, the red light flashes.

If you win the game, you get three points.

first conditional

Use the first conditional to talk about the possible future result of another action. The first conditional is if + present tense + will. Might/could/can can be used instead of will.

If they increase the rent, I'll find another apartment.

If I'm feeling better, I'll go out this evening.

unless

Use unless in conditional sentences with similar meaning to if not.

Unless I phone you, we'll be there at 6.30. = If I don't phone you, we'll be there at 6.30.

5C Quantifiers

A quantifier comes before a noun and it tells us about the quantity of that noun.

There are several cafés near here.

I haven't got much time.

some, any, no

- Use some, any and no with both countable and uncountable nouns.
- Use some in affirmative sentences and any in negative sentences and questions. However, some can be used in questions which are requests or offers and when we expect the answer 'yes'.

There's some milk in the fridge.

There aren't any chairs in the room.

Have you got any bread?

- no* can be used instead of not any.

There are no chairs in the room.

much, many, a lot of/lots of, plenty of, several

- Use much with uncountable nouns and many with countable nouns. Use a lot of/lots of and plenty of with both countable and uncountable nouns. Lots of is generally used in more informal contexts, especially in speaking.
- Use much and many in negative sentences and questions and a lot of/lots of and plenty of in positive sentences. Note the questions How much and How many and the short answer Not much and Not many.

much and many can also be used in positive sentences, although this can sometimes sound quite formal.

(a)few, (a) little, a bit of

- Use a little and a bit of with uncountable nouns and use a few with countable nouns. A bit of is used in more informal contexts, especially in speaking. Use the short answers a little, a bit and a few and use just to emphasise the small number of amount.

There's a bit of pasta left. You want some more? – Just a little, please.

- Use little and few (without a) to mean less than expected or hoped for, although this can sometimes sound quite formal. We can use very to emphasise the small amount.

*Unfortunately, few people came to the meeting.
There's been very little snow this year.*

too much, too many, (not) enough

- Use too much/ too many + noun to mean more than we want or need.

I've eaten too much ice cream.

There were too many people in the shops.

- Use not enough + noun to mean less than we want or need. Use enough to say we have the correct number or amount.

There's not enough rice to make a risotto.

More coffee? – No, I've had enough, thanks.

more and the short answer 'Not much' and 'Not many'.

I eat lots of fruit.

I don't eat much fruit.

I don't eat many vegetables.

I eat lots of fruit. No, I've had enough, thanks.

- 7 I've visited _____ countries. Eight or nine, I think.
- 8 I haven't visited _____ countries. Just two.

GRAMMAR

6A Second conditional

Use the second conditional for things that are imaginary in the present or future and for future actions and situations that are unlikely, but possible.

If I had more free time, I'd read more books.

The second conditional is formed with if + past tense + would. In informal contexts, especially in speaking, would is usually contracted to 'd.

If I lived nearer to work, I'd go there by bike.

Other modal verbs such as could and might can be used instead of would. The past continuous can be used in the if-clause.

If I had more money, I could get a new phone.

If it wasn't raining, we could go for a walk.

would is not usually used in the if-clause.

If I would have more money, I could get a new phone.

After I/he/she/it, use either was or were. Some people may think that were is more correct, but it usually depends on the person who is speaking.

If I was/were richer, I'd get a bigger apartment.

If she was/were here, I'd talk to her.

If I were you, I'd ... is a useful phrase for giving advice. You may hear If I was you, I'd ... but this is considered incorrect by many people.

If I were you, I'd get a new computer.

I'd talk to your boss if I were you.

The if-clause can come first or second in the sentence.

When the if-clause comes first, it is followed by a comma.

When the if-clause is at the end, there is no comma.

If I had a signal, I'd call her.

I'd call her if I had a signal.

6B Structures for giving advice

Use should to give and ask for advice. Use it to say what you think is the correct or best thing to do.

You should use your car less and walk more.

You shouldn't waste so much food.

What should I do about my job?

Use ought to as an alternative to should, but not in questions.

You ought to use your car less and walk more.

You ought to be more careful.

Use really to make the advice stronger.

You really should complain to the hotel.

You really ought to do more exercise.

Use If I were you, I'd ... to give advice.

If I were you, I'd get a new computer.

I'd leave now if I were you.

Use could to make suggestions and to give advice. Use it to suggest options and possible solutions rather than to say what is the best thing to do. could always is also used.

You could stay with us for a few days.

She could always look for a new job.

Use had better and had better not to give strong advice or to give a warning. Use had better for particular situations rather than to give advice in general. In informal contexts, especially in speaking, had is usually contracted to 'd.

You'd better apologise to him.

6C Question tags

Use a question tag after a statement.

It's a nice day, isn't it?

There's an ATM on Green Road, isn't there?

Form a question tag with an auxiliary verb (be, do, have, can, etc.) + pronoun. Use the same subject/pronoun and the same auxiliary verb as in the statement. Use do for the present and past simple.

You haven't been to Brazil, have you?

Jane works at the university, doesn't she?

You used to live in the UK, didn't you?

Peter can drive, can't he?

Use a negative question tag after a positive statement.

He's a teacher, isn't he?

Anna can speak German, can't she?

They arrived late, didn't they?

Use a positive question tag after a negative statement.

You haven't been to Russia, have you?

Andrew isn't here yet, is he?

Note the following question tag forms:

- After I'm ..., use aren't I?

I'm going to get the tickets, aren't I?

- After Let's ..., use shall we?

Let's go for lunch, shall we?

Use question tags to check a piece of information and/or to prompt the listener to respond.

When we are almost sure something is true and we expect the listener to agree with us, our voice goes down at the end.

When we are not sure about something and we ask a real question, there is a very short pause between the statement and the question tag and our voice goes up at the end.

PRACTICE

6A

- 1 Correct the mistake in each sentence. Then write your own sentences using the if-clauses.

- 1 If I would have more time, I'd cook a lot more.

- 4 You think John plays the guitar, but you're not sure.
- 5 You're almost sure your friends will agree that the film was not very good.

GRAMMAR

7A Modal verbs: ability can/can't

Use can and can't to talk about general abilities:

I can speak Swedish.

Can you play a musical instrument?

Also use can and can't to talk about ability at a particular time.

I can't open the window.

I think I can fix the problem.

could/couldn't

Use could and couldn't to talk about general abilities in the past.

I could swim when I was very young.

I couldn't drive until I was in my twenties.

Use couldn't to talk about ability at a particular time in the past. However, do not use could to talk about ability at a particular time in the past (instead, use was/were able to).

I couldn't open the window.

be able to Use be able to as an alternative to can/can't/could/couldn't. This is usually in more formal contexts.

Some children are able to speak at a very early age.

I wasn't able to open the window.

Use was/were able to instead of could to talk about ability at a particular time in the past.

I was able to fix the problem after several hours.

Use be able to with other tenses and structures (e.g. with will, in a perfect tense and when we need the infinitive or the -ing form).

I'll be able to help you later.

I've never been able to learn languages easily.

I'd love to be able to play the piano.

Do you need to be able to speak a foreign language for your job?

Do you enjoy being able to speak six languages?

7B Past perfect

To form past perfect, use had + past participle.

Use the contracted form 'd in informal contexts, especially in speaking.

I'd finished.

We'd met a few times.

Form a question by changing the order of had and the subject:

Had you been there before?

Use the past perfect to show that one event happened before another event or before a specific time in the past. Use the past perfect for the action or situation that happened first. Use the past simple for the action or situation that happened second.

The meeting had finished when James arrived.

I found some keys that someone had dropped.

Actions or situations can be connected with sequence words and expressions such as when, before, after, by the time, by this time.

We'd lived in the flat for weeks before we met the neighbours.

William had left the party by the time we arrived.

Use the past perfect with already and just. Already emphasises the action is completed and just tells us that it was just a short time before. Also use the past perfect with always.

The meeting had already finished when James arrived.

I had always wanted to be a teacher.

Note that in a sequence, the second, third, etc. had is sometimes not used.

After she had visited South America and (had) gone to Hawaii, she then went to...

7C Expressing purpose

Expressing purpose, or saying why we do something, can be done in a number of ways:

- Use to + infinitive.

I'm going to the shop to get some milk.

Save some money to get a taxi.

Why do you want to speak to Jack? - To tell him about the meeting.

- Use in order to as a more formal alternative to to + infinitive.

We recommend that you book early in order to get the best seats.

- Use so or so that + clause (subject + verb).
We set off early so that we would miss the rush-hour traffic.

Download the map so you don't get lost.

- Use so to express result or consequence. so that is not used in this way.
I was tired, so I went to bed.

- Use for + -ing to express the purpose or function of something. The to infinitive can be used in a similar way.
This cloth's for cleaning the floor.
What's this for? - It's to make holes in things.

GRAMMAR

8A Modal verbs: obligation and necessity

must and mustn't

Use must to express what is necessary, required or what we are obliged to do. Use mustn't or must not to express what we are obliged not to do.

You must wear a seat belt at all times.

We mustn't be late.

have to and have got to

Have to has a similar meaning to must and either can usually be used.

You have to wear a seat belt at all times.

Do we have to wear a tie?

In more informal contexts, use have got to.

We've got to win this game.

I've got to work late.

had to

Had to is the past tense of both must and have to/have got to.

We had to leave because they were closing.

don't have to Use don't have to (past tense: didn't have to) to say that something is not necessary, but we can do it if we want to.

We don't have to wear a suit at work.

I didn't have to go into the office today.

need

Use need (past tense: needed) to express what is necessary or required. Use need to + infinitive and need + noun.

We need to leave in a few minutes.

We needed to go shopping.

Use don't need or didn't need to say it is not necessary to do something, but often we can do it if we want to.

We don't need to leave just yet.

We didn't need to book tickets in advance.

be (not) allowed to Use be not allowed to to express permission or prohibition.

We're not allowed to use our phones in class.

8B Passives: present and past

Form the passive by using the appropriate tense of be + past participle.

Note the form of the passive in these different tenses:

- present simple:

The rooms are cleaned every day.

- present continuous:

My computer is being repaired at the moment.

The offices are being decorated this week.

- past simple:

We were invited to the party.

- past continuous:

The road was being repaired last week.

Use the passive to focus on the action and not on who or what does the action ('the agent'). This is usually because:

- the agent is unknown.

My bike was stolen.

- the agent is obvious.

Billions of emails are sent every day.

- the agent is not important.

The museum was opened in 1970.

- we don't want to name the agent.

I was asked to apologise.

Use the passive with by + agent when we want to focus on the agent.

The research was carried out by a team from Oxford.

8C Non-defining relative clauses

The non-defining relative clause comes immediately after the person, thing or place. Always separate a non-defining relative clause from the main clause with a comma.

Use which for things, who for people and whose for possession.

He was born in Maltby, which is a small town near Sheffield.

It's a wonderful college, whose buildings are some of the oldest university buildings in the world.

Use where for places and when for times.

The hotel, where many famous people have stayed, is in the heart of the city.

The best time to visit Dubai is November to March, when it isn't so hot.

Don't use that in a non-defining relative clause.

Don't omit the relative pronoun or relative adverb in a non-defining relative clause.

Use a non-defining relative clause to give extra information about a person, thing or place.

The mountain, which is over 4000 metres high, is climbed by thousands of people every year.

Use a non-defining relative clause to comment on the whole of the previous clause. This is common in speaking.

The park was close to the public, which was a real shame.

GRAMMAR

9A The passive all tenses

We can use the passive in a range of tenses.

Present and past tenses

Use be + past participle.

Millions of items are bought online every day.

My laptop is being repaired at the moment.

Google was started in 1998.

The computers at work were being fixed.

Perfect tenses

Use the appropriate perfect tense of be (has been, have been, had been) + past participle.

The website has been updated.

The house had been broken into.

will and other modal verbs

Use will/modal verb + be + past participle.

The programme will be repeated on Sunday.

Many films can be downloaded for free.

The flight might be delayed by an hour or so.

Form the passive with be going to, have to, need to in the same way.

The website is going to be launched next month.

See 8B Grammar bank for more detail on how to form the passive and why we use it.

9B Third conditional

Use the third conditional to talk about imaginary results of imaginary actions in the past. It is often used to express regret or a complaint. Form the third conditional with if + past perfect + would/wouldn't have + past participle.

If we had left earlier, we wouldn't have been late.

I would have helped you if you had asked me.

Other modal verbs such as could (for ability or possibility) and might (for possibility) can be used instead of would.

I could've helped you if you'd asked me.

If he'd worked harder, he might not have failed his exam.

The if-clause can come first or second in the sentence. When the if-clause comes first, it is followed by a comma. When the if-clause is at the end, there is no comma.

If I'd known, I'd have told you.

I'd have told you if I'd known.

9C Short responses with so, neither, too/either

Short responses can be used to agree or disagree in a number of ways.

so do I, neither do I

Use so + auxiliary verb + subject to agree with a positive statement. Use the same auxiliary verb as in the statement. Use the auxiliary verb do if the statement is in the present or past simple.

I love modern art. - So do I.

I can speak French. - So can I.

Use neither + auxiliary verb + subject to agree with a negative statement.

I don't like modern art. - Neither do I.

My parents can't speak any foreign languages. - Neither can mine.

me too, me neither

Use me too to agree with a positive statement and me neither to agree with a negative statement.

I love modern art. - Me too.

I didn't enjoy the exhibition. - Me neither.

I do too, I don't either, etc.

Use subject + auxiliary verb + too/either to agree with a statement. Use the same auxiliary verb as in the statement. Use too with a positive statement and either with a negative one.

I love modern art. - I do too.

I haven't been to the UK. - I haven't either.

I do, I don't, etc.

Use subject + auxiliary verb to disagree with a statement.

I love modern art. - I don't.

I'm going to the party. - I'm not.

I haven't seen the exhibition. - I have.

I can't speak French. - I can.

GRAMMAR

10A Reported statements

Direct speech uses the exact words that are spoken and these words are put between speech marks.

Jane said, 'I really enjoyed this book.'

Reported (or indirect) speech is when the words are reported, i.e. we don't use exactly the same words and we don't use speech marks.

Jane said that she had really enjoyed that book.

Use say or tell to report what someone says. Use an object (e.g. me, us) after tell.

She said that she loved teaching.

She told me that she really enjoyed his job.

That can sometimes be omitted.

She said she loved teaching.

When we report with said and told, the tense of the verb changes, e.g. present tense → past tense, past tense and present perfect → past perfect, will → would, can → could etc.

'I'm an engineer.' → She said she was an engineer.

'I play the piano.' → He said he played the piano.

'I'm feeling tired.' → She said she was feeling tired.

'I saw Jim earlier.' → He told me he'd seen Jim earlier.

'He's left the office.' → She said he'd left the office.

'We'll be there at 6.30.' → I told them we'd be there at 6.30.

Note that sometimes the tense doesn't change. This is usually to show or emphasise that something is still true, relevant or important.

'I'm in the café.' → He said he's in the café.

'We'll be about an hour late.' → She said they'll be about an hour late.

The tense also isn't changed with the present tense of say and tell.

'Alex plays the drums.' → Oliver says Alex plays the drums.

'I'll meet you in 20 minutes.' → She says she'll meet us in 20 minutes.

In reported statements, change the pronouns, e.g. I → he, we → they, me → her, you → me, etc.

'I saw you yesterday.' → He said he'd seen me yesterday.

10B Verb patterns

Different reporting verbs are followed by different verb patterns. Note that some verbs can be followed by more than one pattern.

Verb + -ing

Some common verbs that are followed by -ing are: admit, consider, deny, discuss, look forward to, recommend, suggest.

He denied breaking the window.

She admitted taking the money.

Verb + to infinitive

Some common verbs that are followed by the to infinitive are: agree, arrange, ask, decide, demand, expect, hope, offer, pretend, promise, refuse, remember, threaten, want.

They are hoping to arrive at about 8.30.

She promised to be on time.

Verb + object + to infinitive

Some common verbs that are followed by object + to infinitive include: advise, allow, ask, convince, encourage, invite, persuade, remind, tell, want, warn.

She encouraged me to say something.

I warned him not to do it.

Negative forms

Note that to make a to infinitive or -ing negative, we put not in front of it.

I promise not to be late.

He suggested not going by bus.

Verb + that + subject + infinitive

Some common verbs that are followed by that + subject + infinitive include: recommend, request, suggest.

Simon suggests that we wait a few minutes.

10C Reported questions

For reported questions, requests and orders, use the same tense, pronoun and time and place rules as in reported statements. See 10B above.

reporting questions

Use asked + object (e.g. me, us) or wanted/wants to know.

She asked me where I lived.

He wanted to know how much it cost.

The word order is different from in a direct question. The word order is the same as in a statement:

'Where do you live?' – She asked me where I lived.

'What are you doing?' – He wanted to know what I

For yes/no questions that don't have a question word, use if.

'Are you going to the meeting?' – Yuki asked me if I was going to the meeting.

reporting requests, imperatives and orders

To report requests, use ask or want + object + to infinitive.

'Can you help me?' – He asked me to help him.

'Could you give me a lift?' – Lana wants me to give her a lift.

To report imperatives, commands and orders, use ask or tell + object + to infinitive.
